U. S. RESERVE BANK AGREES TO RENEW GERMAN CREDITS

To Advance $25,000,000 of $100,000,000 Extended by Britain, France and International Bank.

WALL ST. PLANS SHORT TERM CREDIT

General Understanding Is Reached on $600,000,000 Obligations at Conference.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, in association with other Federal Reserve banks, has agreed to renew its participation in the outstanding credit arrangement with the German Reichsbank. The credit amounts to $100,000,000, of which the Federal Reserve banks furnished $25,000,000. The remainder was furnished by the Bank for International Settlements, the Bank of France and the Bank of England.

The credit was originally made to tide the Reichsbank over the mid-year settlement period, and expired July 16. It was renewed for three weeks at that time. Some of the central banks suggested a long-term renewal, but the Bank of England desired only a three-week extension at that time.

The action of the Federal Reserve today follows similar action by the Bank for International Settlements.

Wall street bankers have made substantial progress toward evolving practical means for maintaining the volume of American short term credits in Germany, now estimated at around $500,000,000.

F. Abbott Goodhue, chairman of a committee of bankers chosen to study the recommendations of Dr. Hans Luther, president of the German Reichsbank, for making effective the plan of maintaining credits to Germany, announced yesterday that a "general understanding" upon the problem had been reached at a general meeting at the Federal Reserve Bank at which all of the leading New York banks were represented.

"Certain suggested modifications of the German proposals, which seemed desirable to the New York bankers, were agreed upon and are to be called to the Reichsbank," said Goodhue, who is president of the International Acceptance Bank. "On the whole, these amendments are on the same lines as those suggested by British bankers and, in addition, safeguard certain technical questions which are peculiar to this market."

"Points to be ironed out."

"While it will certainly take some time to iron out these technicalities between Berlin and the several markets involved, and to bring about a complete unanimity, it may be said that the meeting was most satisfactory and the general impression was that real progress had been made."

"The general plan, as is well understood, is along the lines of President Hoover's suggestions, adopted by the recent London conference, of maintaining on a practicable and reasonable basis the short term credit facilities granted by foreign countries to Germany so that she may be able to finance her imports and exportations with the facilities which she now enjoys."

"The committee is in touch with the leading banks of the other Federal Reserve districts and has received from most of these assurances of co-operation along the lines of the proposed plan."

Difficult on Acceptances.
Goodhue declined to discuss in detail the modifications suggested to Dr. Luther's original proposals, but it is understood that they deal with self-liquidating credits made to finance shipments of goods.

It is understood that Dr. Luther suggested extension of all such credits for six months. New York bankers are believed to favor the payment of acceptance credits at maturity, and their replacement with new credits, to meet various technical and legal requirements.

Acceptances are not paid at maturity, question arises as to whether they would still be eligible for re-discount at the Federal Reserve.

Of the $600,000,000 of American short term credit in Germany, it is thought in Wall Street that more than half is in the form of acceptance. It is also reported that New York bankers favor 90-day extensions, rather than six-month.

GERMANY REPLIES TO U. S. PROPOSAL ON COTTON OFFER

Leaders must be replaced with radicals who will take a more determined stand on such questions as war reparations and the Versailles treaty.

Among newspapers suppressed in Germany by the Government on charges of "utterances endangering public safety" was Gen. Ludendorff's weekly Volkswarte. Five Communist papers in Saxony also were suppressed. The suppression order covers two weeks.

Breuning and Curtius Enter Italy on Way to Rome.

By the Associated Press.

BRENNERO, Italy, Aug. 6.—Chancellor Breuning and Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany reached this frontier town this evening on the way to Rome and transferred from their train to Premier Mussolini's private railway car. They are due in Rome tomorrow morning.

The Germans' first words on meeting Mussolini and his Foreign Minister, Dino Grandi, it may be taken for granted, will be words of thanks for Italy's quick acceptance of the Hoover war debt holiday and its statements in favor of revision of the peace treaties.

Breuning and Curtius have emphasized that their visit to Rome, like that to London and Paris, will be one of free interchange of ideas and not of fixed topics for discussion. Members of their delegation have said, however, that they will frankly ask Mussolini just what his objections are to the proposed Austro-German customs accord.

Question of Minorities.

Much as Germany is concerned about the German minorities in ceded provinces and especially in the South Tyrol, Breuning and Curtius do not intend to broach this subject unless Mussolini himself opens the discussion. Should he bring it up, however, they are expected to voice Germany's view that minorities everywhere should have full opportunity to lead their cultural and linguistic life unhindered though at the same time living up to their duties as citizens of the nation to which the territory now belongs.

After their conferences with United States Secretary of State Stimson and British Prime Minister MacDonald, Germany's statements are now anxious to learn Mussolini's real views concerning the coming disarmament conference. They already know of the Italian Government's desire for the greatest possible measure of all-around reduction of armaments but they hope to find out to what extent German and Italian policy will coincide at Geneva.

They are understood further to desire certain revisions of tariff schedules and to be prepared to meet similar Italian wishes in a spirit of mutual accommodation.

The Balkan Problem.
One subject which is expected to offer material for fruitful discussion is the relations of both nations to the Balkan States. Italy is known to be making earnest efforts to widen her sphere of political influence in that territory. Germany is prepared to assure both Italy and France, it was understood, she has no political aspirations in the Balkans but is desirous of increasing her commercial relationship through a system of preferential tariffs.

Finally there is the question of reparations and of what is to follow after the termination of the Hoover holiday. Mussolini has made no secret of the fact that he is ready for the revision of peace treaties and willing to give up any claims for reparations provided there is a satisfactory and corresponding adjustment of inter-allied debts.

On leaving Berlin, the statesmen received the news that Mussolini had ordered a special train of six cars to be sent to the Italian frontier station of Brennero to carry his guests the rest of the way. They are scheduled to arrive tomorrow morning.

CHARTS NEW AIR ROUTE OVER ICE TO GREENLAND

sumably to map a trans-Arctic air route from America to Europe. Cramer is understood to have deposited $1000 with the Danish Government to be used for the relief of his expedition in case of emergency and to have obtained permission to land. A supply of gasoline recently was cached at Angmagssalik for use of his survey.

Cramer will attempt to fly to Reykjavik, Iceland, today, and will fly on to Bergen, Norway, via the Faroe Islands tomorrow. Preparations are being made to receive him here on Sunday.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 6.—A Diesel-motored, pontoon-equipped Bellanca airplane took off from the Detroit River July 27 for an unannounced destination, with Parker D. Cramer at the controls.

Cramer, with Bert Hassell of Rockford, Ill., attempted a flight from Rockford to Stockholm in 1928. They were missing for two weeks, then were found in Greenland. Cramer also was at the controls of the "Untin Bowler," which came to grief on Hudson Bay on a later trail blazing from Chicago over roughly a route for Berlin. He accompanied Sir Hubert Wilkins on both his North and South Pole expeditions.

The aviator and those with whom he was working divulged none of their plans here. Airmen who watched the preparations with curiosity recalled that the plane carried a considerable quantity of fuel, camping equipment and emergency rations. A previous attempt to take off on July 25 failed, they said, when the plane refused to rise. The plane bore on its side the legend, trans-American Airline Survey Plane No. 1.

One argument Cramer has cited in favor of the Far Northern route was that the longest single water flight is 492 miles, from Iceland to the Faroe Islands. Heavy pay loads can be carried, he said, because frequent refueling is possible.

From Washington came word that Assistant Postmaster-General Glover, in charge of the air mail division, was watching the flight with interest, but that the Postoffice Department is not connected with the aerial survey.

WIDOW SUES FOR $10,000 FOR DROWNING OF HUSBAND

Begin Action Against J. E. Holman Jr., Who Saved Her and Child in Lake Accident.

Suit for $10,000 was filed in Circuit Court at Clayton today against John E. Holman Jr., president of the Holman Paper Box Co., by Mrs. Mary England of Havana, Ill., as a result of the drowning of her husband, Louis England, a mussel fisherman, last August.

England was drowned at Quiver Lake, Ill., when a rowboat in which he was seated was capsized by a motor launch owned by Holman. England, his wife and their 3-year-old child were thrown into the water when the launch struck the boat.

Holman, who was in the launch with two friends, leaped out and held Mrs. England and the child above water until a skiff reached them and took them to safety. England was unable to swim and drowned before aid could reach him. Holman, who lives at 60 Broadway drive, Clayton, could not be reached.

Representatives Tilson and Snell for that office, has become even more pronounced in recent weeks. Some of the Western Republicans are demanding that both Tilson and Snell retire in favor of a Westerner, Ramseyer of Iowa and Mappes of Michigan being most prominently mentioned in that connection. All of this has served to raise Democratic hopes.

LINDBERGH HELD AT AKLAVIK BY ROUGH WEATHER

Unless Storms Along Route Lift Suddenly, Flight to Point Barrow May Be Delayed for Days.

By the Associated Press.

AKLAVIK, N. W. T., Aug. 6.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh were still storm bound at Aklavik today. Violent storms, which broke yesterday, were still raging and a take-off was considered impossible.

They were expected to await a change in the weather before taking off for Point Barrow, Alaska, the next stop in their holiday trip from New York to Tokyo.

Radio operators reported communication with the outside world almost impossible as violent storms swept the barren lands between Simpson and Aklavik.

During Wednesday the barometer fell steadily here and skies became overcast shortly after the arrival of the Lindberghs from Baker Lake. Rain had been falling intermittently and flying conditions generally were extremely bad.

Fog All Along Route.

Bad storms and fog extended along the route from Aklavik to Point Barrow. Unless the weather changes suddenly, the flight of the Lindberghs to Point Barrow may be delayed for days.

In addition the Arctic ice pack encircling Point Barrow, 536 miles to the northwest, had prevented the cutter Northland from arriving there with gasoline and oil. The Northland was near the ice off Icy Cape, 150 miles beyond Barrow.

The path through central Alaska, striking the Yukon River and either stopping at Fairbanks, on the Tanana, or proceeding directly from here on the 900-mile flight to Nome, promised clearer weather but at the journey's end, Nome, it also was cloudy and raining last night.

Gets Plenty of Rest.

Yesterday was given over by Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh to rest and sleep after their arrival on their 1100-mile flight from Baker Lake. They had a warm breakfast at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Ungert and then had nine hours' sleep.

The entire population of Aklavik and whites and Eskimos from miles around spent the day examining the gleaming low wing monoplane and awaiting the awakening of the couple to entertain them.

With only a few hours of darkness here, 130 miles inside the Arctic Circle, between the hours of 10 p. m. and 1 a. m., Pacific standard time, the visitors had the opportunity after rising to see Eskimo life for the first time.

Supply Ship Is Ready.
Meanwhile, 700 miles to the west, Coast Guardmen aboard the Northland made plans to refuel the plane if the Colonel should decide to fly to it. Calm waters of a nearby lagoon or even the waters of the Arctic Ocean, with only a light wind blowing, would make such refueling possible.

At Point Barrow, weeks of preparations to greet the Lindberghs have been under way with house cleaning and the nation's swiftest part of the work. The medical missionary, Dr. Henry Griest, has prepared his home, the only one with a bathtub, to receive the Lindberghs as honored guests.

ALABAMA NEGRO LYNCHED FOR MOLESTING WHITE GIRL

By the Associated Press.

HAYNESVILLE, Ala., Aug. 6.—A 16-year-old Negro accused of an attempted attack on an 11-year-old white girl was lynched in the Sandy Ridge community near here yesterday. The Negro was shot 32 times, according to Sheriff W. E. Meadows of Lowndes County.

Sheriff Meadows said the Negro accused the girl yesterday morning as she was on her way from her home to a grocery about half a mile away. She fought him, escaped and ran to her home.

When the Sheriff arrived some time later he found the body of the Negro's body tied to the trunk of a tree with a rope and a dog chain.

OKLAHOMA LAW FOR PRORATION OF OIL UPHELD

Three-Judge Court Sustains Act Under Which Governor Murray Ordered Wells Closed.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 6.—National Guardsmen moved to the few remaining oil wells not yet closed in compliance with the executive order of Gov. Murray. All wells in the greater Seminole area, comprising more than 40 square miles were closed yesterday with the exception of strippers and those pumping water.

The Chandler area, comprising 14 wells, and the 65-well Tatum Pool of Carter County, remain to be closed.

No opposition to the troops was found in the Seminole area. Many operators met Lieutenant-Colonel Cicero L. Murray, the Governor's cousin, and Adjutant-General Charles F. Barrett to declare their willingness to comply with the Governor's order.

Meanwhile, the Governor's fight to restore minimum prices of $1 per barrel for crude oil, and the determination of the major purchasers to retain present top prices of 50 cents showed signs of becoming an endurance contest.

Proration Laws Upheld.

A majority of a three-judge court in Guthrie upheld the State's proration laws, under authority of which the wells were ordered closed. The Champlin Refining Co. of Enid, Ok., had attacked their validity.

While no statements have been made by the pipe line companies, reports were current that some of them planned to seek relief in court from Murray's order. The shutdown has curtailed the supply of oil for the refineries.

Gov. Murray was balked in a move to enlist the aid of Gov. Sterling of Texas, whom he asked to close Texas wells.

"Our Legislature is making splendid headway today in passing conservation laws," Sterling wired the Oklahoma Executive. "I am sure that this session of the Legislature is going to pass the necessary measures to correct our deplorable condition. We are not in position to do as you are doing on account of the decision rendered by three Federal Judges, which, in substance, annulled our proration laws. I congratulate you on your efforts and wish you success."

without success. Also, it would not be to his credit that general agents should discover major violations in territory under his supervision.

"All this would be true even if his brother were not in a conspiracy, or if he (Gus Nations) were ignorant of such conspiracy. Also, it would be to his interest to anticipate this raid if he had knowledge of such conspiracy. Under any circumstances, it would not have been unnatural for him to anticipate this raid, if he had knowledge of such conspiracy."

TEN PERSONS HELD IN PLOT TO BRING ALIENS TO U. S.

Secretary Doak Says 100,000 Have Been Landed Illegally—Scheme to Blackmail Foreigners Charged—Three U. S. Employees Arrested.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The breaking up of a New York ring that was reported to have brought 100,000 aliens into this country illegally in the last 10 years, has been announced by the Government.

Secretary of Labor Doak yesterday said 10 of the leaders of the ring had been arrested for illegally selling return permits to aliens barred from entering the United States. Three were employees of the Immigration Bureau in New York. All were of that city.

Doak said today confessions had been obtained from several of the men held. He did not name any of the men who had confessed. Copies of the confessions have been sent to him. Some of the men held, Doak said, were reputed to be wealthy.

Those arrested were Edward Burns and Albert F. Borrelli, naturalization clerks at Ellis Island; Simon Rothberg, immigration clerk; Robert Bader, Spiro Dracopoulos and John Saltario, private bankers and steamship agents; B. Paggioli, private banker; Joseph Sousa, tailor and steamship agent; and Gus Schieffman and Anthony Allosco, real estate operators.

While all ramifications of the ring have not been traced, the Secretary of Labor said, the arrests are thought to have broken up one of the biggest rings of racketeers in the country.

The existence of fraudulent return permits—those supplied to be issued only to aliens legally in the United States and wishing to leave and return—was disclosed a few months ago when several men were apprehended in New York on charges of blackmaling aliens illegally living here. They were accused of threatening the aliens with deportation unless they paid tribute and of using forged deportation warrants as a threat.

Some aliens produced permits that later were found to be fraudulent and inquiry into this disclosed the permit racket. The permits were sold at prices ranging from $100 to $1850, Doak said.

Special Assistant Secretary of Labor Garson and Immigration Inspectors Brown and Devio and Capt. McDermott of the New York police force were credited with the arrests.

There can be no doubt that the evidence at the third trial regarding the raid was prejudicial. It permitted the jury to suspicion that there was some connection between the raid by (Gus) Nations and the raid by the general agents. That was the clear design of this evidence. Without a word of connecting proof, the jury was permitted to suspicion a reason for the raid, other than that given by the witnesses for the appellant. By this error, the appellant was prejudiced from having a fair trial."

CAULFIELD COMMUTES DEATH SENTENCE OF YOUNG SLAYER

MacDonald County Man to Have Been Hanged Aug. 22 for Killing Father.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 6.—Gov. Caulfield today commuted the sentence of Joe Morgan, youthful MacDonald County slayer, from death on the gallows to life imprisonment.

Morgan was sentenced to be hanged Aug. 22 for murder of his father at the farm home near Goodman, Mo., on July 10.

Executive clemency was granted the 34-year-old killer after an inquiry by Gov. Caulfield into his mental condition and also into the facts surrounding his sentence of death. Morgan entered a plea of guilty and was not represented by counsel.

James Tatum, Prosecuting Attorney of the county, in a letter to the Governor, recommended a commutation, saying Judge Smith joined in the appeal for clemency. Gov. Caulfield said that if Morgan shows definite signs of insanity he will be transferred to a state hospital for the insane.

AMY JOHNSON REACHES TOKIO AFTER FLIGHT FROM LONDON

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Japan, Aug. 6.—Amy Johnson, British woman flyer, landed at Tachikawa Airfield at 5:17 p. m. today, at the conclusion of a flight by easy stages from London. She was accompanied by C. S. Humphries.

The British aviatrix, the first woman to fly from London to Tokyo via Siberia, completed the flight in 19½ days, and beat by a few hours the 11-day light plane record between the two cities, made by Seiji Yoshihara, Japanese aviator.

HEARING AUG. 20 IN ROBBERY OF OSCAR JOHNSON

Court Defers Arraignment
of F. F. McDonald and Bart Davit Which Was Set for Today.

CHECK MADE ON STORY THEY TOLD

Police Unable to Find Still at Place at Which Accused Men Said They Were Working.

Officers of St. Louis and Franklin counties, investigating the robbery and attempted kidnapping of Oscar Johnson of 28 Portland place, have been unable to find the still which the two suspects, Felix F.
McDonald and Bart Davit, say they were tending at the time of the attack on Johnson, on Melrose road near the western boundary of St. Louis County, Monday afternoon.

McDonald and Davit are known to the authorities as alcohol cookers. Their first story, after their arrest a mile from the scene of Johnson's escape, was that they had been working at their still, just over the Franklin County line, and that when they heard police cars approach, they fled, leaving the still in the woods to the south of the place where they were arrested by county deputies.

The place which they described as the location of their still was visited by the officers, but no still was found.

The preliminary hearing of Mc-Donald and Davit, first set for this afternoon before Justice of the Peace Leslie T. Lewis, in University City, was postponed for two weeks being re-set for Aug. 20.
The prisoners are charged with robbery with a deadly weapon, a crime punishable by imprisonment from 10 years to life, or by death, and with kidnapping, punishable by two to 10 years imprisonment.
Their bonds have been set at $100,
each.

The reason given for the commune was that Johnson, who is a Barnes Hospital, was not able to appear. He is recovering from the beating inflicted by his two captors with a riot gun and a revolver, in his struggle to escape.

He kicked the dashboard, breaking the ignition key, and got away, after being robbed of $75.

Testimony at the preliminary hearing was expected to bring out more fully than has been told heretofore the circumstances of the two suspects' arrest, nearly three hours after Johnson's escape from his captors.

In that time, men on foot could have gone much farther from the scene of the attack than McDonald and Davit were when arrested.
Johnson's captors, when they left him, apparently started toward Manchester road. It is the opinion of Sheriff Lill that they decided to leave the road, and reversing their course, went back and hid in the woods and fields, then started again toward Manchester road, walking along the edge of the timber and unpaved road on which they were arrested.

Employees at St. Albans, the Missouri River estate of Johnson's mother, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, and tenant farmers in that vicinity, were patrolling the roads in that section from the time that the news of the attack was received,
and were spreading out to the east.

Third Man Sought.
The county authorities are continuing their search for a possible third man, driver of the Ford wheeled in which the assailants of Johnson are believed to have gone to Melrose Hill, the place of the first attack. Witnesses have told of seeing the car there as early as 10 a. m., three hours before the attack.

From the hill the road toward
St. Albans can be surveyed, and it is the opinion of the county officers that the Ford car remained on the hill for three hours, waiting for the appearance of Johnson, whose week-end visits to St. Albans and his return on Mondays, were matters of general knowledge.

A suspect arrested yesterday was viewed by two witnesses who had seen the Ford at that point. They could not identify the man, and he was released.

PUBLISHER SEEKS TO BAR
'AMOS AND ANDY' FROM AIR

PITTSBURG, Aug. 6.—"Amos and Andy," the radio sketch, is a "defecation on a race of people who believe they are doing a little better than 'Amos and Andy' are doing with the 'Fresh Air' Taxicab company," Robert L. Vann, Negro attorney and publisher, said today.

Vann, with a petition which he had bore the signatures of between 200,000 and 300,000 persons, asked the Federal Radio Commission and the United States District Court in Illinois to bar
"Amos and Andy" from the air.
The petitioners will appeal the case "all the way up to heaven," he added.

"Amos and Andy" do not represent the American standard to which the American Negro aspires, and the sketch is detrimental to the Negroes' interests," the attorney said.

COMPLAINT AGAINST SIGNALS AT CUT-OFF

Lindell-Locust Motorists Say
There Is Not Enough Time to Clear Olive.

Motorists going through the Locust-Lindell cutoff between Lindell and Locust boulevards, at the Channing-Olive-Lindell intersection, have complained that the time for vehicles using the cutoff to cross Olive street and Channing avenue is too short.

The complicated automatic traffic signals at the intersection allow 12 seconds for traffic in the cutoff in each cycle. The cycle is 62 seconds long. The first phase of the cycle allows 15 seconds for Olive street trolleys to cross, accompanied by any vehicles going east in Olive or Lindell. The second phase is the 12-second period for the cutoff. The third allows seven seconds for the light traffic in Channing, and the fourth gives 24 seconds for vehicles westbound in Olive or eastbound in Lindell.

"A longer period for movement in the cutoff cannot be allowed without changing the master switch cycle at the Olive-Channing-Lindell crossing and change the speed for vehicles all along Olive. The system is set now to allow 30 miles per hour. The legal speed limit lengthening the cycle would decrease this speed and cut the street capacity. Another effect, if we lengthened the cycle, would be to delay traffic in streets crossing Olive all along, which would be particularly troublesome at Twelfth.

"There is no time to spare on the other three phases of the cycle at Olive-Channing-Lindell. The time on all the phases there is too short for handling the evening peak traffic in the most satisfactory manner, but that situation would be cured if all drivers would be courteous and not try to get ahead of each other. Most drivers refuse to decrease this speed and cut the street capacity. Another effect, if we lengthened the cycle, would be to delay traffic in streets crossing Olive all along, which would be particularly troublesome at Twelfth.

The signals at the intersection have been in service since Nov. 13, 1929. Gontier said the only complaint he had received about the time for movement in the cutoff came from a representative of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association about six months ago. Gontier did not know of any accidents which had occurred as a result of the short period for the cutoff. Some drivers have said they narrowly missed being struck by machines or trolleys moving on the following phase of the cycle.

Records of the Safety Council show the number of automobile accidents—chiefly collisions between machines—at the whole Olive-Channing-Lindell intersection, without distinguishing those involving cars using the cutoff. These records show there were 15 accidents in the last six months of 1929, during most of which time the signals were not in use; three accidents in the first six months of 1930 and six in the last half of last year. The 1931 data have not been compiled.

Island in the Missouri River of people and possessions for Mrs. Oscar Johnson's projected flying field at St. Albans, stopped today to make a concession.

Mrs. Johnson's attorney, Jesse
H. Schaper of Washington, Mo., who holds title and to whom the writ of eviction was issued by Circuit Court at St. Charles, announced after a second conference with the Brown men that he had agreed to let their 200 acres of corn stand until fall and pay for the whole Olive-Lindell signal system, between Grand and Twelfth boulevards.

"City Traffic Engineer Gontier explained today. "To change this master would change the cycle at the Olive-Channing-Lindell crossing and change the speed for vehicles all along Olive. The system is set now to allow 30 miles per hour. The legal speed limit lengthening the cycle would decrease this speed and cut the street capacity. Another effect, if we lengthened the cycle, would be to delay traffic in streets crossing Olive all along, which would be particularly troublesome at Twelfth.

"There is no time to spare on the other three phases of the cycle at Olive-Channing-Lindell. The time on all the phases there is too short for handling the evening peak traffic in the most satisfactory manner, but that situation would be cured if all drivers would be courteous and not try to get ahead of each other. Most drivers refuse to decrease this speed and cut the street capacity. Another effect, if we lengthened the cycle, would be to delay traffic in streets crossing Olive all along, which would be particularly troublesome at Twelfth.

The signals at the intersection have been in service since Nov. 13, 1929. Gontier said the only complaint he had received about the time for movement in the cutoff came from a representative of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association about six months ago. Gontier did not know of any accidents which had occurred as a result of the short period for the cutoff. Some drivers have said they narrowly missed being struck by machines or trolleys moving on the following phase of the cycle.

Records of the Safety Council show the number of automobile accidents—chiefly collisions between machines—at the whole Olive-Channing-Lindell intersection, without distinguishing those involving cars using the cutoff. These records show there were 15 accidents in the last six months of 1929, during most of which time the signals were not in use; three accidents in the first six months of 1930 and six in the last half of last year. The 1931 data have not been compiled.

Swallows Grass Blade; Dies.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—A blade of grass killed 2-year-old Farrell Lasky. He placed it in his mouth while playing in a park 10 days ago. His mother alarmed him on the back until it was dislodged, but it passed into one of his lungs, causing an infection from which he died in a hospital yesterday.

BARTENDER KILLS MAN HE ASSERTS THREATENED HIM

Robert Mattingly, 51, Shoots Raymond Reinecke, 30, to Death in Saloon at 1235 High Street.

Ejected from a saloon late yesterday afternoon as a troublemaker, Raymond Reincke, 30-year-old salesman, returned an hour later to threaten the bartender and was shot to death by him.

The bartender, Robert Mattingly, 51 years old, was held for the Coroner. A charge of violating the State dry law was placed against him when beer and whisky were found in the bar.

A verdict of justifiable homicide, setting forth that Mattingly fired in self-defense, was returned by a Coroner's jury today. Despite the verdict, however, Assistant Circuit Attorney Griffin announced he would present the case to the grand jury.

Three other persons were in the saloon at the time of the killing.
Two of them fled. The third, a Negro porter, told police he did not see the killing, although he verified other particulars of Mattingly's account of it.

Reincke, the bartender, asserted, entered the saloon, which is at 1235 High street, at 4:30 o'clock and said "Gimme a beer." "You can't have any," Mattingly said he replied, basing his refusal on the fact that Reincke appeared to be drunk.

"I want beer," Reincke shouted, pounding the bar. "You can't have any," the bartender repeated.
"You're a trouble-maker. The last time you were in here you caused all kinds of trouble. Now get out and stay out."

Describes Killing.
Reincke left, but told the bartender, "I'll be back about 6:30 or quarter to seven." Mattingly said he disregarded the remark. "The next thing I knew," he said, "was when Ray came back an hour later.
I knew him well. Why, he used to tend bar here, before I did. I was talking to Mrs. Cecelia De Blase—she's the owner, running the place while her husband does a year and a day on a narcotic charge—and her brother, William Glen.

"Ray had his coat over his arm, held in front of him, when he came back. He got about four feet from the bar and made a grab at the waistband of his trousers. Get 'er up, get 'er up," he said.
"My pistol was lying on the ice-

box. When I saw what was coming I picked it up and let him have
it. I fired once and he staggered.
Then I fired again and he went down and stayed down. Mrs. De Blase and her brother went out the back door and I called the police."

When police arrived, Reincke was on the floor, dead. Apparently one of the bullets had severed his jugular vein. A few inches from his fingers lay a loaded revolver which had not been discharged.

Slayer Shot Another Man.
Police records show that he had been arrested 11 times, eight of them on suspicion of violating the dry law. Mattingly also has been arrested frequently. He was accused, in 1929, of shooting William King, proprietor of a nearby saloon, but there was no prosecution in this case, according to police records. King recovered.

Baum, the Polishman boys related, appeared to think that his knowledge of the savages and their language would enable him to control them. He settled down with twelve carriers to work his vein of gold quartz and induced the savages to bring them food every day at a regular rate of pay.

After a while the bags of yams became lighter and lighter. Baum protested in vain, and at length when an almost empty bag was brought him he ordered the bearer to take it away.

Instantly the savages rushed him and killed him, afterwards performing a wild ceremonial dance, then attacked the 12 servants of his party and killed nine of them.
The other three eluded their pursuers and brought back the story of Baum's death.

FORMER TEXAS GIRL ARRIVES IN U. S. WITH HER PRINCE

They Will Go to Weatherford for Visit; He Is In Line for Liechtenstein Throne.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Prince Jean de Liechtenstein and his bride, the former Aleene McFarland of Weatherford, Tex., arrived today from London where they were married one day before sailing for the United States. The pair will proceed in a few days to the small Texas town where the princess' father, the late Charles MacFarland, accumulated a fortune in cattle and oil investments.

The princess de Liechtenstein, slender, dark, and continental of manner, stepped off the boat wearing a black silk dress with a blouse of fine linen trimmed with point lace. The only jewelry she wore consisted of three strands of pearls from the family jewels of the prince.

The prince and princess said they planned to live in Paris and Vienna but expected to visit the United States every year.

Prince de Liechtenstein, who speaks English with the fluency of an Englishman, is in the line of succession to the throne of the principality of Liechtenstein although he is not the direct heir.

Clarence de Voy, former St. Louisan, Stricken in Memphis.
Clarence de Voy, 48 years old, an officer of a building materials company of Memphis, Tenn., and a former St. Louisan, died yesterday afternoon of a heart attack when playing golf, according to information received by his brother, Norman de Voy, 6911 Julian avenue.

He was formerly employed by the Union Sand and Materials Co.
here. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Mildred de Voy, and three brothers. The funeral will be held at Memphis tomorrow morning.

USED CHILD AS SHIELD FROM GANG'S GUNFIRE

Member of Narcotic Ring Explains Killing of Another Youngster in Harlem.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Tony Tro-bino, admitting he was the intended target of the gangland bullets that killed one child and wounded four others in Harlem's "Little Italy" recently, told police today how he used the body of a child
as a shield from the bullets.

The admission was made to a detective. Shortly thereafter Tro-bino was arraigned on a technical charge of robbery, and ordered held without bail. Police Commissioner Mulrooney would say only that the prisoner was "valuable information."

Trobino is said to have admitted that he was a member of a narcotic ring recently split up by civil war, and that the word had gone out that the faction of which Tro-bino was a follower was going to have trouble.

Trobino was reported to have said he was sitting in an automobile in Harlem when the gangsters started to fire from their automobile.
Feigning a wound, he opened the door of his car and crawled along
the sidewalk to where a group of children were playing.

Then, Trobino said, as the gangsters' car approached the spot to which he had crawled he grabbed a boy and held him up. A spray of bullets burst forth from the car, killing Michael Vengalli and wounding four other children who had been playing in the vicinity.
Feigning a wound, he opened the door of his car and crawled along
the sidewalk to where a group of
children were playing.

When the gangsters' car put on full speed, Trobino said, he dropped the boy, ran over to the automobile in which he had been sitting and drove away.

Police were said to be searching for Vincent Coll, whom Trobino named as leader of the rival narcotic gang, and two others.

BOY OF BOY, 5, RECOVERED
The body of Harry Hagerman, 5 years old, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Hagerman, 3364 Botanical avenue, was recovered from the Meramec River at Sherman, Mo., yesterday afternoon near the scene where the boy and his 7-year-old brother, Louis Jr., drowned the day before.

The two boys were caught in the current of the stream while wading and went down despite the efforts of their mother to save them. The body of the older boy was recovered within 40 minutes after he had drowned Tuesday afternoon.
Both bodies will be taken to Chicago for burial.

Why be satisfied with second-choice,
when first-choice costs no more?

When you buy tires be sure you get the tire
that will give you most for your money.

Be sure you get the tire so far ahead in quality and value that it is outstandingly the first- choice tire of the world.

That tire is the Goodyear Tire. For 16 years it has been true that "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

Recently a great and unbiased public institution completed a nation-wide survey, asking American car owners "What tire is best?"

The vote, representing every section and uninfluenced in any way, shows a preference for Goodyear Tires nearly 2½ times that for the second tire, and five times the average preference for all other makes.

No thinking man will allow mere sales talk to weigh against public testimony like that.

Just keep firmly in mind that Goodyears enjoy leadership because they give the user something extra, and that the user gets that something extra today at no premium in price.

When the high-pressure dealer seeks to sell you a second-choice tire against your better judgment, protect yourself by asking him this simple question:

"Why should I buy a second- choice tire, when Goodyear cost no more?"

SENTENCED TO 15 YEARS

So-called "Iron Fist" of Gang Ordered to Clinton Prison for Torture.
By the Associated Press.
CATSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 6.—John (Garry) Scacchio, alleged "Iron fist" of the Jack (Legs) Diamond gang, was sentenced yesterday to 15 years in Clinton prison for his part in the torture of Grover Parks, a truckman. He was convicted last week on the same evidence that resulted in Diamond's acquittal at Troy.

Parks' story of torture at the hands of gangsters led Gov. Roosevelt to direct an investigation into racketeering in the Catskills, where Diamond established a stronghold after being crowded out of New York City by his rivals. Scacchio, with others, joined him there later. Parks, who hauled cider, was beaten and his feet were burned when he did not disclose to persons who kidnaped him the location of a still. He blamed Diamond and his gang. Marion Roberts, missing show girl and a friend of Diamond, was indicted with Diamond, Scacchio and others.

GIRL HIT ON HEAD WITH WRENCH DIES; FIANCE ARRESTED

Matthew Guerra, Jennings Painter, Admits Striking Arline Young, 20, on Automobile Trip.

Matthew Guerra, 20 years old, 3633 Hord avenue, Jennings, was charged with the death of his fiancée, Miss Arline Young, also 20 years old, 2528 Ada avenue, Jennings, in a homicide verdict returned by a coroner's jury today.

Guerra's arrest last night followed the discovery of an autopsy physician that the girl, who died yesterday morning, had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage caused by a fractured skull.

Guerra admitted, according to police, that he had struck the girl on the head with an automobile wrench in a quarrel more than a month ago. She had been ill since July 1 and last Saturday entered Christian Hospital for treatment of a supposed blood ailment. She did not tell anyone she had been struck on the head.

Police sent out at the coroner's request to make an investigation learned from the girl's foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Young, that she had been engaged to Guerra several months. Questioned about her injury, Guerra readily admitted striking her on the head on June 23, when they were on a trip to Chicago.

Guerra, who is a painter, told police that he met Miss Young about six months ago and that they had been going together since then. On June 23 they started to Chicago on a vacation trip with two other young men and another young woman in an automobile belonging to one of the men. Guerra said Miss Young had been asking for some time that they get married and brought up the subject again on the trip.

He told her he could not consider their marriage at that time. According to Guerra, they then engaged in a quarrel over where they should stay in Chicago, the girl demanding that they go to the home of his sister and he insisting they go some other place. He said Miss

Young flew into a rage, attacking him with a wrench that was in the car, and that he took the tool from her and struck her with it, "to quiet her."

Guerra said she apparently suffered no ill effects at the time and that she became ill only after they had returned to Jennings five or six days later. Her foster parents, who adopted her when she was about a year old, said she had told them she was ill from an illegal operation. The post mortem examination did not disclose evidence of any such ailment.

WIFE HELD IN DOCTOR'S DEATH
Charged With Kentucky Murder Despite Confession of Son, 13.
LOUISA, Ky., Aug. 6.—Although William Bailey, 13 years old, admitted he shot and killed his father, Dr. Oscar E. Bailey, at Estep last week, Mrs. Bailey was under arrest today charged with murder.

The warrant was sworn by Charles Bailey, brother of the physician. Lawrence County officers did not divulge the nature of the evidence which caused issuance of the warrant. After Dr. Bailey died in an Ashland hospital, the Boyd County coroner returned a verdict of justifiable homicide and decided not to file charges against the son. William said he fired when his father, who was whipping a younger son, turned on his mother and attacked her when she interfered.

ALLSTATE'S 12 Points of Leadership

Proved in Thorough Laboratory* Tests

Here is the report of the leading authority on how to compare tire values. And more!—it is the report of a man who has no tires to sell. But he is the industry's most famous authority, and he has the largest independent tire-testing laboratory in America, completely and accurately equipped.

The chart at the left shows what he found out about ALLSTATE. Read it! See for yourself what an impartial expert says about the way ALLSTATE compares with a typical, nationally-advertised tire. See the facts! Compare them in 12 ways, as all tire authorities compare them.

A glance at the table below will show you ALLSTATE'S astonishing value. America's foremost tire engineers designed ALLSTATE tires especially for Sears, Roebuck and Co. The world's most successful tire manufacturer makes them. Our own stores bring them to you. One low cost, one modest profit.

COMPARE These 12 Quality Points

The Tire Industry's Largest Independent Testing Laboratory* Finds These Facts:

	Size 29x4.40-4.40-21	ALLSTATE Tire	A Nationally Advertised First Line Tire
1. 29.35% LOWER PRICE		$4.98	$7.05
2. More Volume of Material	385 Cu. In.	374 Cu. In.
3. More Weight	16.625 Lbs.	15.875 Lbs.
4. More Width	4.544 In.	4.34 In.
5. More Thickness of Tread	.348 In.	.345 In.
6. More Tread Width	3.78 In.	3.59 In.
7. Better Cotton Fabric	15 Strands	9 Strands
8. 29.90% Better Cord Strength	17.8 Lbs.	13.7 Lbs.
9. Better Breaker—Under Tread	Double Woven	2 Single
10. 25% More Tread Strength	3950 Lbs.	3160 Lbs.
11. Longer Tread Wear	121% More
12. Number of Plies	4 Plies	4 Plies

A Ply is one of a number of layers of rubberized cotton fabric—either cord or square woven—extending from bead to bead and forming the body of the tire. Definition of the National Better Business Bureau.
Any fabric merely under the tread of a tire is a breaker strip and not a ply.

YOU SAVE 25%

Do your own comparing! Stop in any Sears store today and see the cross-sections of ALLSTATE tires. Compare them with other tires, point by point. Today, when value is so important, you can't afford to pay more for a first-quality tire than we ask for ALLSTATE. Now here clean you get equal quality for ALLSTATE prices.

The GUARANTEE Behind ALLSTATE Tires

"We Guarantee ALLSTATE tires to be first quality tires in every respect; we guarantee them to give satisfactory service, without limitation as to time or mileage. If any ALLSTATE tire fails to give you the service you have a right to expect, or fails to give you equal service with any other first quality tire, we will repair or replace it, charging only for the proper material and labor. Further, we guarantee to refund the purchase price of any ALLSTATE tire that we find defective."—Sears, Roebuck and Co.

COMPARE These PRICES

Automobile manufacturers do not use the Second Line Tires of National Manufacturers as original equipment. Why should you take the risk when you can save money by buying genuine, FIRST QUALITY ALLSTATE TIRES, backed by a responsible guarantee and with a saving of 25%? Even if the tire size for your car is not listed, we have it—and we will save you up to 25%.

800 MILE PIPE LINE FORMALLY OPENED

Phillips Company to Bring 20,000 Barrels of Gasoline Daily From Texas.

The 800-mile pipe line of the Phillips Petroleum Corporation, with a capacity of 20,000 barrels of gasoline a day, was opened for service with dedication ceremonies yesterday afternoon at the eastern terminus of the line at Monsanto, Ill., adjoining East St. Louis. This is said to be the longest pipe line built to carry gasoline. Other pipe lines coming into the St. Louis area carry crude oil from the wells to refineries. The Phillips line, costing about $15,000,000, will bring raw gasoline from the Borge, Tex., field, which will be blended at the Monsanto plant with other constituents to make the finished product.

Marking the opening of the line, Frank Phillips, president of the Phillips company, turned a spigot from which gasoline ran into a tank on the automobile of Mayor Doyle of East St. Louis.

Clyde Alexander, president of the Phillips Pipe Line Co., the operating company, made the principal address. He told of the difficulties of designing and building the line. He said there was no precedent for the construction of such a line and that the engineers had to solve problems as they arose. The company was congratulated in short talks made by Mayor Doyle of East St. Louis, Samuel W. Fordyce, president of the Industrial Club of St. Louis, Walter Welschberger, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, former Mayor Henry Kiel, now president of the Police Board, and Bruce A. Campbell, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Illinois. Howard Harrington, publicity director of the Phillips company, presided at the ceremonies.

A dinner was given at the Racquet Club last night for the Phillips company executives and their guests. At Montano the Phillips company has storage facilities for 450,000 barrels of gasoline, and loading facilities for distributing the product in tank cars from that point.

"GRAPE BRICK" SHOP RAIDED IN NEW YORK

Concentrates Would Produce 13 Per Cent Alcoholic Wine, It Is Charged.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—A shop in Fifth avenue selling "grape bricks" which are convertible into beverages was raided yesterday by prohibition agents who said under certain conditions the bricks would produce wine of 13 per cent alcoholic content.

The prisoners gave their names as Charles W. Shenk, and Charles McDonald of New York and John Skiff, Bloomfield, N. J.

The raid followed the recent renewal of requests from Fred A. Victor, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, to Attorney-General William D. Mitchell that the courts be asked to test the legality of the sale of grape concentrates.

Charles W. Shenk, Eastern district manager of the distributing company, said the bricks themselves contain no alcohol whatever, being merely the concentrated essence of California grapes.

A truck was loaded at the shop with approximately 2400 "grape bricks" and other stock seized in the raid. The load was taken to the Government warehouse.

Cook Injured in Fight.
Francis George, a cook living at 3203 Michigan avenue, was taken to City Hospital last night suffering from a fractured skull. Another man living at that address was arrested after George said the man struck him over the head with an electric fan.

BILLION DOLLAR BUSINESS
BY AMERICAN HOTELS IN 1929

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—American hotels do a business of more than one billion dollars annually. Preliminary figures announced today by the Census Bureau placed the 1929 receipts of 15,577 hotels at $1,039,363,000. Those operating throughout the year reported receipts of $362,801,000; resort hotels, $76,562,000.

The census covered hotels having 25 or more guest rooms. It did not include apartment houses, boarding houses, clubs, Y. M. C. A.'s or Y. W. C. A.'s. The year round hotels had a total of 1,124, 957 guest rooms and a dining room capacity of 610,762. Resort hotels had 158,929 guest rooms and a dining capacity of 274,571.

Of the 13,323 year round hotels, 10,907 operated on the European plan; 1097 on the American plan and 1324 on the mixed plan.

Australia Seizes Flour for Idle.
SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 6.—Seeking to provide the unemployed with bread during a dispute with master bakers, Premier Lang today authorized the seizure of a thousand tons of flour which was intended for shipment abroad. The action created great excitement. The Government recently signed a contract with one company for the sole supply of "dole bread" but the master bakers refused to supply the company at the stipulated price. Flour millers, yeast makers and delivery organizations supported the bakers and the unemployed were left without bread.

KLEENEX
DISPOSABLE TISSUES

WASHING handkerchiefs is no longer a necessary evil. This unpleasant task is ended forever—if you choose to join the thousands who have adopted Kleenex.

What is Kleenex, you ask? Kleenex is a remarkable tissue—far softer, gentler, more absorbent than you ever dreamed a tissue substance could be made. Tests prove it's twice as absorbent as an old linen handkerchief!

Always clear, fresh, dainty
Kleenex comes to you in dainty squares, handkerchief size. Conveniently packed, in a Cellophane-wrapped package that keeps every tissue fresh and sanitary.

And the cost is so very, very little. If you send your washing out, Kleenex will save considerable money, for many individual tissues can be used for the price of merely laundering one handkerchief!

There's no self-infection as with the handkerchief that's carried back to the face again and again. When you use Kleenex, all germs are destroyed, along with the tissue.

Try Kleenex for removing face creams. Authorities say it's best, because Kleenex is so powerfully absorbent that it blots all impurities from the pores.

Many home uses
Use Kleenex for wiping spectacles and razor blades. For dusting and polishing. Mothers find Kleenex invaluable in caring for babies. Kleenex is so enormously popular that any drug, dry goods or department store can supply you. The package is Cellophane-wrapped for perfect cleanliness. A convenient arrangement permits tissues to be removed with one hand.

If you have Hay Fever...

You'll appreciate the softness and absorbency of Kleenex. Do not put up with damp, irritating handkerchiefs another day. It is impossible to describe the greater comfort of these dry, gentle, absorbent tissues. (And remember, Kleenex costs less than laundering!)

Men Can't Resist
Salads made this way!

Here's a unique mayonnaise, double whipped for extra creaminess and flavor, that most husbands prefer at once.

"SALADS ALWAYS SEEMED LACKING IN FLAVOR TO ME... UNTIL MY WIFE TRIED HELLMANN'S MAYONNAISE."

HERE'S the proved way, Madam, to win husbands to health-building salads. A way being used by millions of women today.

You simply begin to use Hellmann's Mayonnaise... Serve it on even your simplest salad. And the result in most cases seems almost magical.

ITS FLAVOR EXPLAINED
Hellmann's, you see, is made from specially selected salad oils... a unique blend of Far East Spices. All mixed to the exact proportions demanded by its famous old French recipe.

But more than that! Good ingredients alone cannot make exquisite mayonnaise. Sure success lies in the care and thoroughness with which each separate ingredient is mixed. So Hellmann's is always carefully double whipped.

Double whipping is a secret, scientific blending process that mixes the ingredients to a harmony of perfection and brings new zest to your salads. Under the microscope you would see tiny globules of oil, regular in size. Thus you would know that it is blended completely, so that each ingredient contributes its full share to the delicate, piquant flavor... the flavor that most men like so well.

GUARANTEED TRIAL OFFER
Now to prove our faith in Hellmann's power to win you, we make this offer: Order a trial jar today... then, if you and your husband do not agree that it is the most exquisitely flavored mayonnaise you ever tasted, take back the jar and get your money.

Ask distinctly for Hellmann's Mayonnaise. This is the famous mayonnaise which always has been identified by the Blue Ribbon on the label. It is the largest-selling brand in America. Your grocer has other Hellmann Products, too. Why not try them?

NOTE TO COFFEE PACKERS—Coffee packers desiring to employ General Foods Corporation method of packing Maxwell House Coffee should communicate with American Can Company, 230 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y., which is exclusively authorized to grant the right to use this method

MAXWELL HOUSE announces the VITA-FRESH PROCESS

Now for the first time a packing method which prevents Oxygen from robbing fine coffee of strength and flavor

This is one of the most important announcements in the history of packaged foods.

It not only means much in terms of new enjoyment to the lover of fine coffee, but it makes a luxury coffee a real economy.

With the introduction of the new Vita-Fresh Process, Maxwell House solves a problem that has baffled the coffee industry for years: the problem of preventing rapid deterioration, caused by Oxygen, after roasting.

This greatly advanced new process enables the roasters of Maxwell House to guarantee you strictly fresh coffee at all times, wherever purchased.

Oxygen a greedy racketeer

Coffee flavor, you know, is highly perishable.

And Oxygen, a part of the very air we breathe, is its arch-enemy.

A greedy racketeer, Oxygen attacks coffee as soon as it comes from the roaster, stealing its strength, hijacking its flavor and robbing you of the very elements that put aroma and delight into your coffee cup.

Just read these amazing facts. These facts were established in a leading eastern university and were published in "Food Industries" (September, 1930).

- 1 Loose or bag coffee loses 65% of its flavor in 9 days after roasting
- 2 Coffee in old-fashioned cans loses 45% of its flavor in a like period

All due to the attack of Oxygen!

The Vita-Fresh Process

An improved vacuum method

For many years Maxwell House has wrestled with this perplexing problem.

But not until the discovery of the Vita-Fresh Process has science been able to overcome the steady flavor loss due to Oxygen.

Vacuum packing, of course, was a great step forward.

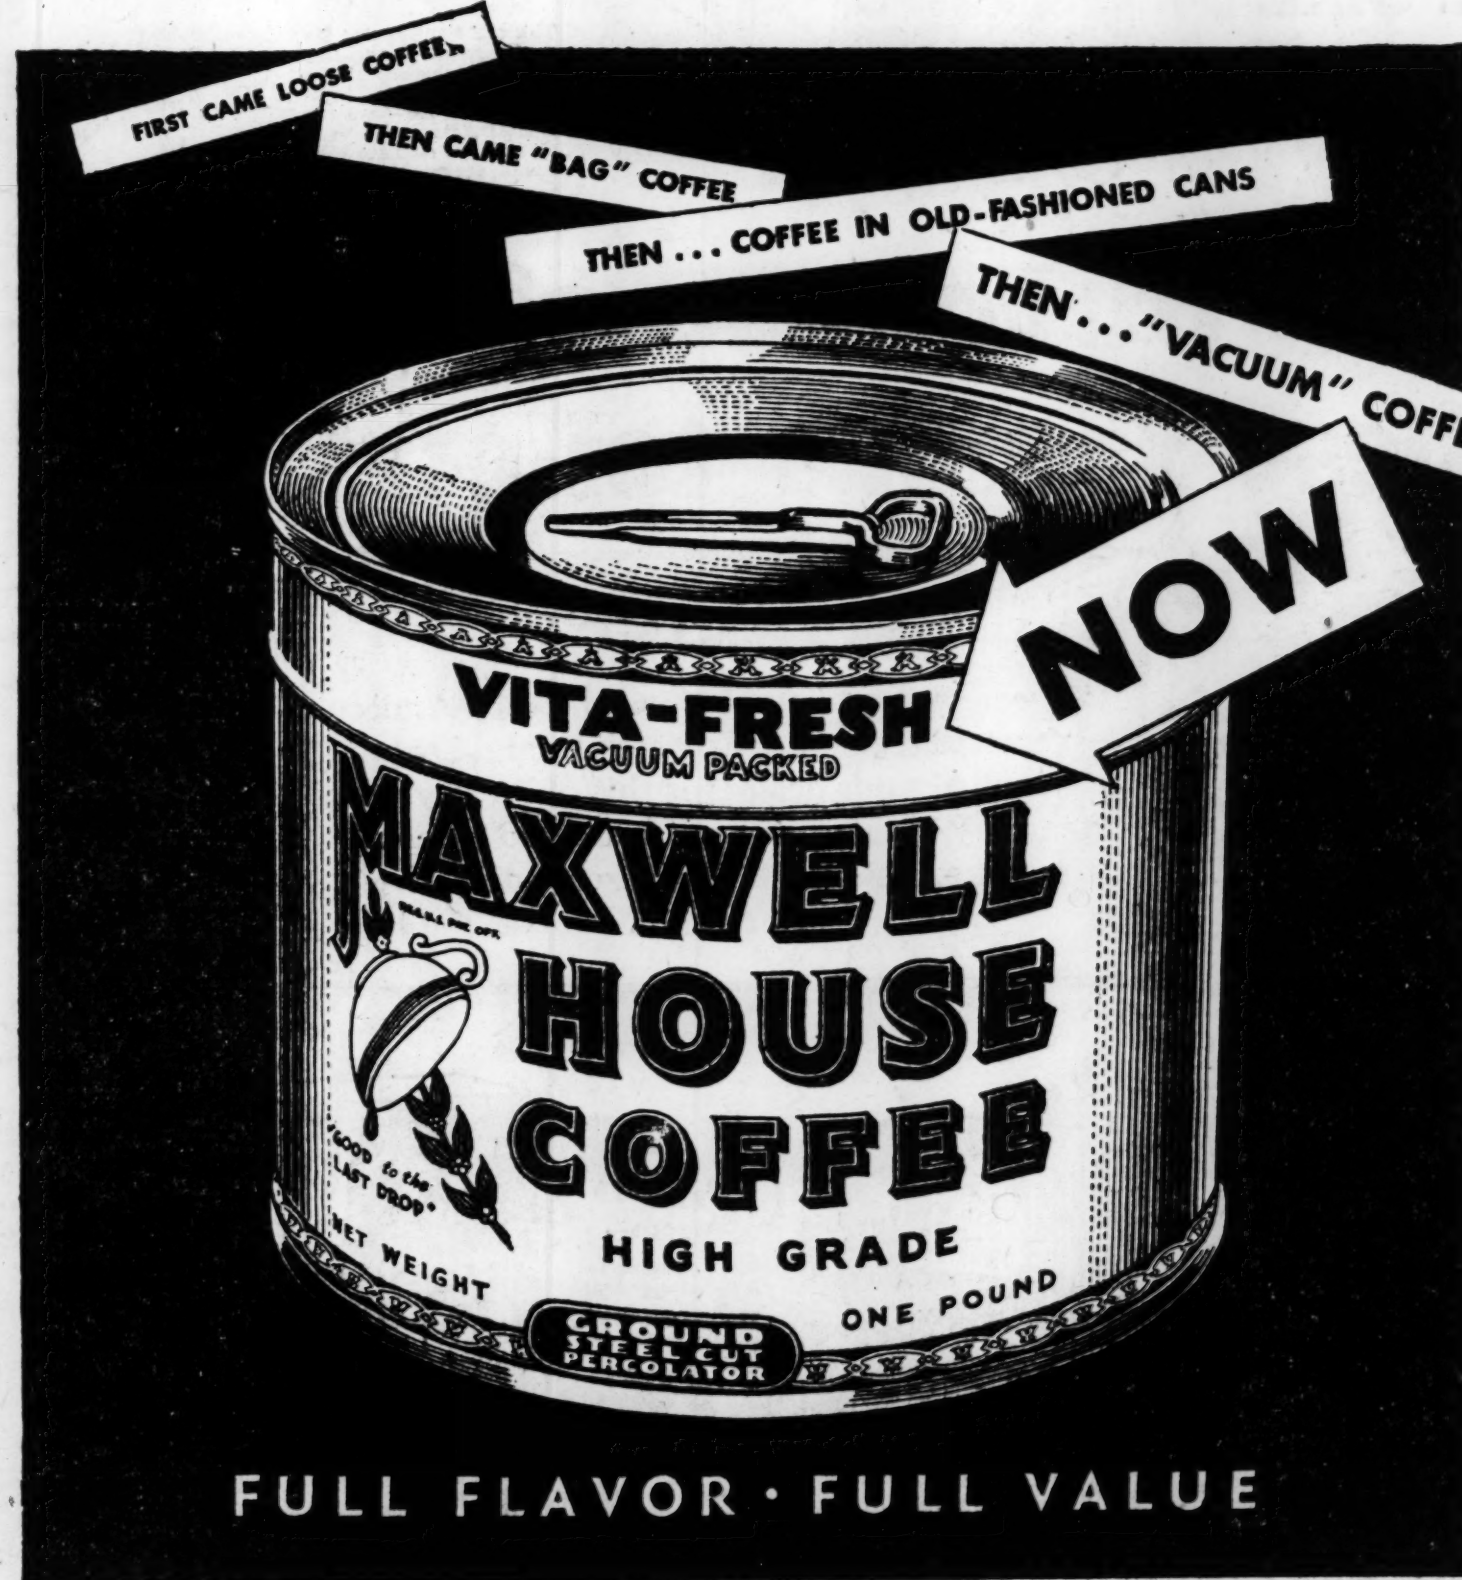

But even that was not enough to satisfy our food chemists who for months now have been hot on the trail of an improved new method which would bring absolute protection.

Vacuum packing was far superior to old-fashioned methods because it withdrew part of the Oxygen from the can and prevented Oxygen from entering the package after sealing.

The new Vita-Fresh Process is a great advance over vacuum because it removes 90% of the Oxygen left in the can by the usual vacuum method.

In other words, Vita-Fresh Packing actually removes 99% of the air from the Maxwell House can.

According to every yardstick of science, this revolutionary new method is the most nearly perfect process ever developed to preserve the freshness and flavor of fine blended coffee.

The finest coffee now a real economy

If you are a connoisseur of fine coffee flavor, and have been vainly trying to lure the flavor of freshly roasted coffee into your coffee cup by using more than the standard proportions—then the economy of Vita-Fresh Maxwell House Coffee will appeal to you. For now you can use your old proportions for making coffee—yet have that inimitable coffee flavor heretofore impossible, regardless of proportions, unless you had roaster-fresh coffee.

For it can truthfully be stated that Maxwell House Coffee guarded by the Vita-Fresh Process captures and preserves for you the real flavor of freshly roasted coffee.

You judge at our risk

Please don't take our word for this statement. All we ask is that you make the flavor test yourself and be the exclusive judge.

Order a pound of Maxwell House at your grocer's. Prepare it in your usual way. Then if you and your family don't agree that it is the finest coffee you ever drank, if you don't find that you get extra flavor for your money in every pound, simply return the can with the unused portion and the grocer will gladly return your money.

SUES TO ENJOIN SALE OF PACKING FIRM TO SWIFT

Stockholder Also Asks for Removal of President and Treasurer of St. Louis Independent Co.

WANTS COURT TO NAME RECEIVER

Dr. Joseph Knichel Alleges That Price Offered by Chicago Concern Is 'Grossly Inadequate.'

Suit to enjoin the sale of the St. Louis Independent Packing Co. to Swift & Co. of Chicago on the ground that the price is "grossly inadequate" was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Dr. Joseph Knichel, a stockholder.

Dr. Knichel also asks for a receiver for the St. Louis company and requests the removal of Louis E. Dennig as president and treasurer and his son, Louis S. Dennig, as general manager, charging mismanagement.

In notices sent to stockholders recently it was stated that Swift & Co. would pay $1,500,000 for the local company's real estate, buildings and equipment, plus the market value of raw and finished products on hand. Louis S. Dennig said the inventory of products on hand would exceed $1,500,000. Dennig and his father would not comment on the suit, but said the company would issue a statement later following a directors' meeting.

$25,000 Yearly to President. The St. Louis company's assets, with balancing liabilities, were given as $4,616,512 in its balance sheet of Nov. 1, 1930. Its capitalization is 200,000 shares of no par value common stock and $1,430,000 of 7 per cent preferred stock.

The suit alleges that since Louis E. Dennig assumed control of the company it has drifted rapidly toward insolvency, although the founders of the business operated it profitably, and unless the court intervenes, common stockholders will be "practically wiped out."

Louis E. Dennig became president about seven years ago. Formerly he was general sales manager for the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co. Lacking in knowledge of the technique of the packing business, the Dennigs have dominated the board of directors to the extent that it virtually has ceased to function, the suit charges, and have refused to place a practical man in charge at the request of stockholders.

Louis E. Dennig, according to the suit, has, without legal authority, been withdrawing $25,000 annually, which he has charged on the books as salary. Dr. Knichel asks that the Dennigs be required to account for the money and value of the property they "may have acquired or wasted." In requesting their removal, the suit asks that a stockholders' election to replace them be held under supervision of the court.

Firm Founded in 1904. The St. Louis company has a 14-acre plant at Chouteau and Vandeventer avenues, a branch in Pittsburgh, Pa., and stockyards in East St. Louis. Officers, besides the Dennigs, are Alex Blachoff, vice president, and W. W. Krenning, secretary. The company was founded in 1904 by the Blachoff and Krenning families.

The company's net income for 1930 was $107,578. That was its best year since 1926 when net income was $469,361. In 1927 it had a net loss of $818,740, and in 1928 and 1929 net income was $37,777 and $29,160, respectively.

Dr. Knichel, a physician with offices at Vandeventer and Chouteau avenues, holds 656 shares of common stock and 18 shares of preferred stock. He invites other stockholders to intervene in the suit. Marlon X. Morris of the law firm of McCarthy, Morris & McGrail, filed the suit on behalf of Dr. Knichel.

The stockholders' meeting to vote on the proposed sale to Swift & Co. is set for next Wednesday. A hearing on the suit will be held Monday.

Preaches Self to Death. SUMTER, S. C., Aug. 6.—Elizabeth Windham literally preached herself to death. The Negro evangelist undertook a marathon sermon, starting at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. She concluded at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning. Then she collapsed and died. Death was attributed to heart disease.

$400 TAKEN IN THIRD HOLDUP OF LOAN OFFICE

The branch office of the Royal Loan Co., 1506 Hodiamont avenue, was held up for the third time in five months yesterday afternoon, when two men took $400 and fled, after threatening employees with a revolver. The robbers entered the office on the second floor of a building in the busy Westlawn shopping district at 4 o'clock. One man pointed a revolver at Emmett Fitzgibbon, 6619 Bartmer avenue, the manager, and Miss Juanita Kirby, 4549 Westminster place, cashier. "Have her give him the money," the armed robber directed Fitzgibbon, indicating his companion. Miss Kirby took $400 in currency from the till and gave it to the second man. "Now be quiet, and don't look out the window," the leader directed as the robbers backed out the door and fled downstairs. They are believed to have driven away in an automobile. On June 1 Paul Daemler, 20 years old, of Webster Groves, was shot in the leg and captured by Deputy Constable Everett Cochran, who entered the loan company office as Daemler was starting out with $500, which he had taken from Fitzgibbon and Miss Kirby. Daemler admitted that he held up the place last March 26, obtaining about $700. He pleaded guilty several weeks ago and was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

PROSECUTOR'S FORMER AID TRIED FOR MURDER

D. H. Clark Charged With Killing Los Angeles Magazine Editor.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 6.—Endeavoring to build up a case of circumstantial evidence against David H. Clark, former Deputy District Attorney, on trial for murder, Special Prosecutor W. J. Ford today summoned new witnesses to testify to the circumstances of the slayings of Charles H. Crawford, wealthy politician, and Herbert F. Spencer, his associate.
Crawford and Spencer, a magazine editor, were shot to death in the former's office in Hollywood last May 20. Clark surrendered 48 hours after the shooting, but made no statement to authorities. Attacking the intimidated self-defense pleas of Clark, widows of both the slain men were witnesses yesterday. Each testified her husband was unarmed when they left their homes they day they were shot.
Prosecutor Ford, in his opening statement to the jury, charged Clark murdered Crawford for an unannounced reason and then killed Spencer, the only witness. Clark is on trial only for the killing of Spencer, the charge in the Crawford death being held up awaiting the outcome of the Spencer case.
At the request of the State, Clark, who had been at liberty on $100,000 bond, was taken into custody for the remainder of the trial.

Harry Blackmer's Brother Dies.
By the Associated Press.
NOGALES, Ariz., Aug. 6.—W. D. Blackmer, 65 years old, mining engineer, died at his home here Tuesday night. He was the former manager of the large Palmerton silver mine in Sinaloa, Mexico. He leaves two brothers, Harry Blackmer, who figured in the Teapot Dome case, now a resident of Paris, and C. Frank Blackmer, vice president of the American Steel & Wire Co. of Cleveland, O. Burial will be in Worcester, Mass.

HERE'S YOUR ANSWER TO SUMMER'S MAKE UP QUESTION

"How can I keep make-up on?" In summer every woman asks that—unless she knows the marvelous way Plough's Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream makes rouge and powder cling. This cream is protecting, too, and keeps the skin fair and smooth.
Plough's Cleansing Cream is ideal for summertime cleansing, going deep beneath the surface to relieve skin-congestion (dirt-clogged pores), and to insure immaculate freshness. Plough's Cold Cream—soothing, healing, nourishing—restores and preserves the skin's youthfulness. Each of Plough's Peroxide, Cleansing and Cold Creams is economically priced at 25c, 50c, 50c.

Tony Dorian Found Hacked to Death in Bed at Clermont, Ill.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 6.—Maggie Watletka is held in jail here in connection with the murder of Tony Dorian, a miner, who boarded with her at Clermont, seven miles north of here. He was found dead in bed yesterday with head wounds evidently inflicted by an ax.
A coroner's jury called by C. A. Jackson returned a verdict of death from ax wounds and directed that Maggie Watletka be held.

BRING THIS AD WITH YOU

Test them any way you like —they're FRESH!

OPEN the Humidor Pack wrapped around Camels and smell the fresh fragrance of mild tobacco that greets your nostrils.

Make the same test with any other brand. You'll find there's no comparison.

Savor the mild, cool smoke of Camels, see how satisfying and throat-friendly it is, how rich in smoke-pleasure.

Contrast its aromatic, dust-free goodness with the brash taste and bite-and-burn of harsh, parched-dry tobaccos. Then you'll see what freshness really means!

Camels are blended of fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos so choice they need no parching to make them palatable—made fine they are kept fine by the Humidor Pack.

This scientific germ-safe wrapping—not plain ordinary Cellophane, but moisture-proof Cellophane which costs nearly twice as much—seals in all the natural aroma and freshness, seals it so tightly that wet weather cannot make Camels damp, nor drought weather make them dry.

Test Camels any way you like—you'll find them milder, cooler, more enjoyable, fresh!

As a favor to your throat switch to Camels for just one day, then leave them—if you can.

Tune in CAMEL QUARTER HOUR featuring Morton Downey and Tony Wons—Columbia Broadcasting System—every night except Sunday

Smoke a FRESH cigarette

Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against perfume and powder odors, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until the last one has been smoked.

ARSON CHARGES AGAINST GIRL ARE TO BE DROPPED

Belleville Prosecutor Thinks It Would Be Difficult to Make a Case Against Her.

Indictments charging arson and larceny against Miss Florence Jenks, 20-year-old Belleville stenographer, will not be pressed. State's Attorney H. C. Lindauer has announced. Lindauer said that he would ask that the cases be removed from the court docket with leave to reinstate them.

Examinations of Miss Jenks by a committee of alienists, Lindauer said, convinced him that it would be difficult to make a successful case against the girl. She was charged with setting two fires, one of them causing $60,000 damage at the Belleville Stove & Range Co., where she was employed. She was said to have admitted various petty thefts from the company, beginning in February, 1929.

The fire at the stove factory occurred in January, 1930, and Miss Jenks made a confession of acts of larceny and arson in the following April. Lindauer, said, however, that she had never confessed to setting the stove factory afire and that the State expected difficulty in proving that she had, although she had admitted starting small blazes because of an intense urge to destroy something.

11 MILES LONG

It is difficult to measure by ordinary means the success of Canada Dry since the announcement of the new low price.

Over 24,000,000 bottles were sold! Put them side by side and they'd stretch from New York to Chicago. Put them end on end and you'd be in Paris before you were done.

A huge quantity of Canada Dry! But then, a huge number of people are drinking more and more of The Champagne of Ginger Ales every day.

For at its new low price, Canada Dry is not only the first choice of connoisseurs, but of the thrifty people too. It is the outstanding value in ginger ales today.

And now there are two sizes of Canada Dry bringing you greater convenience than ever. The new large size is ideal for parties and for family use. It contains five full glasses. The familiar 12-ounce size is just the thing for individual use.

Stock your pantry with the handy Hostess Package of Canada Dry.

NEGRO LODGE HOLDS COLORFUL PARADE

Four Bands Furnish Music for March in Downtown Streets.

The "annual spectacular street parade" of the Ancient United Knights and Daughters of Africa, Negro lodge holding its convention here, moved in majesty down Washington avenue and along Twelfth street to Market street and thence westward again early this afternoon.

Even to the fringe of spectators who lined the sidewalks, strode between the units at street crossings and filled the windows of buildings, the parade was "big doings." For 15 minutes the line of the parade took the attention of the street.

Flowing ahead of it along the sidewalk (only the west side of Twelfth street was given over) was a worshipping throng of small Negro boys in overalls and play clothing, who alternately walked with the parade and then, fired by the spirit of the banners and band music, leaped ahead again in small boy spirit.

A bicycle escort surrounded the Ford automobile in which the National Grand Major-General headed the parade. Then followed the separate delegations, half of whom at least seemed to be from Chicago.

Identity was never concealed.
Women's delegations wore pen-nants pinned on their backs, men carried pennants on canes, and banner-bearers lifted aloft huge silk pennons with the names of August councils throughout the United States (and its possessions).

Several delegations carried Japanese parasols of red, green and yellow, and others carried the orthodox rain-shedders done up in blue and gold, the lodge's colors.

For hours alternately broke into spirited marches or tapped syncopated drum rhythms.

Fezes, turbans, military caps marked the heads of the throng, along with satin uniforms of white and yellow, blue and yellow, red and white. Sluggish on account of the traffic which was allowed to move almost at will, the parade halted again and again.

Through a galaxy of drill units,
nurses corps riding in ambulances, serious juveniles in olive drab uniforms and strutting bands, the design led up to the befeathered car where Ernest Patillo of St. Louis, recently elected national grand master for a second time, rode among higher officers of his council.

There followed about 50 automobiles as lavishly applanter with crepe paper strips. By actual count there were no more than a half dozen cars in the 50 which had less than eight cylinders.

Man Attacked in Room.

Frank Giberson, a carpenter living at 1920A East Grand boulevard, suffered a fractured skull last night when he was struck on the head by an unknown assailant who entered his room. A young man living in the house was taken to City Hospital for observation.

MISSIONARY EXONERATED IN DEATH OF CHINESE

Dr. Francis Tucker Killed Hospital Employee He Mistook for Burglar.

By the Associated Press.
FALLS CITY, Neb., Aug. 6.—Dr. Francis Tucker, former Nebraskan, cabled from Tsinanfu, China, yesterday that Chinese authorities had exonerated him of charges in the death of a native. He gave no details.

Dr. Tucker, a missionary for 29 years, was charged with shooting a Chinese employee of a Tsinanfu mission hospital. He said he thought the man was a burglar.

Chinese authorities were reported to have demanded Dr. Tucker's execution, the payment of indemnity and an apology. At the request of the American State Department, however, they turned him over recently to the United States Consul.

arithmetic. First, try to figure out its first place margin. First place margin to fade five weeks it would lose would be in first place.

And now try this one: Giants and Cubs were to games a week on the during the remainder of on, who would NOT win the National League?

Yes, that's right, class, the Cardinals would NOT win the National League.

And now figure it by standard of weeks. The Cardinals 49 games remaining on the schedule. They have won three last six games and have two games of their lead during period of baseball. Now, how could they lose now and Oct. 1?

That's right. Eight times 49. The Cardinals could lose to the extent of eight games, or 16 games, which make it necessary for them to lay cash money on the head and spend railroad fare to the Athletics of Connie Mack some National League club.

Carls Can't Ease

Now, of course, the Cardinals should win the pennant. Perhaps these few problems will make you realize the Cardinals will have down during the remainder pennant race. They still seven-game lead, but if they continue to play careless overlooking the finer points of business, they may run into trouble.

Manager Street and his turned this morning from Western trip, with three in five straight. They won five straight. Two sold safe in Chicago. On one second base was covered and the overright the popper into a double the defeat of Sylvester 3 to 2, after the big steal scored brilliant ball.

The other defeat was at Pittsburgh yesterday, local manager Street didn't put runner for Gus Mancuso on second, nobody out scored tied in the sixth inning. Mancuso did the trouble to slide to when Sparky Adams hit a left that should have game. The contest went innings. Flint Rhem was of the affair by Unipier the twelfth and the first scoring a run off Jim Loe.

If the Cardinals were their way to the top of the protecting a one-game or which would have been a run for Mancuso. That many times last year profitably. Well, why not game smart, wide-awake now? Wouldn't it be w every possible game.

The Sooner, the Be Clinch the pennant give the Cardinal stars before the big battle. Mackmen? And wouldn't well to lay up all possibilities now, to offset a loss that may hit the Red Sox go down the stretch?

Of course, it will help National League race and ten the pocketbooks of of contending clubs if nals do lose a flock of tighten up the race, but nals don't care about the ever travel with profess players for 15 years. y that no race is ever or tightened artificially, club's willingly losing game.

Today the Redbirds Tomorrow they open a series with the Cubs. of which will be a Sunday noon on which there will one game at Sportman's that is, unless it rains to Saturday, making a double success for Sunday.

And now boys and girls, we will have a few simple problems in arithmetic.

First, try to figure this out: If a ball club can lose two-ninths of its first place margin in one week, how long would it take for its first place margin to fade into red ink? That's right, Doderidge, in five weeks it would lose ten-ninths of its margin and somebody else would be in first place.

And now try this one: If the Cardinals and Cubs were to gain two games a week on the Cardinals during the remainder of the season, who would NOT win the pennant in the National League?

Yes, that's right, class, the Cardinals would NOT win the pennant. And now figure it by games, instead of weeks. The Cardinals have 49 games remaining on their schedule. They have won three of their last six games and have dropped two games of their lead during that period of baseball. Now, how much ground could they lose between now and Oct. 1?

That's right, eight times six is 48. The Cardinals could lose, ground to the extent of eight times two games, or 16 games, which would make it necessary for the Cardinals to win 65 games to win the pennant. Fairmount Plans Fall Meeting; Decision to Be Announced Monday

Reports that a fall racing meet would be held at Fairmount track were renewed today when the Daily Racing Form of Chicago, quoting Robert S. Eddy Jr., general manager of Fairmount track, stated that a 25-day meeting opening in September had been practically decided upon. Mr. Eddy was quoted in Chicago as follows:

Bottomley Boosts His Batting Mark 27 Points in Day

JIM BOTTOMLEY, Cardinal first baseman, increased his batting average 27 points in one day when he made eight hits out of 10 trips to the plate in yesterday's double-header at Pittsburgh.

Prior to the games, Bottomley had a mark of .301, based on 53 hits in 176 times at bat. Two out of four in the first game and six out of six in the second game sent his mark up to .323, making him high man among the Redbirds, except for Wally Reuther, who doesn't play regularly.

The series will offer the Cardinals a chance to put a severe crimp in the Cubs' pennant prospects. Rogers Hornsby's team is in second place now seven games behind the league champions. The series also will offer the Cubs a chance to get back into the hunt in a big way. A clean sweep would leave them only four games behind.

Manager Street and his men returned this morning from their Western trip, with three victories in five starts. They should have five straight. Two pop flies all safe in Chicago. On the second and second base was left unattended and the overnight turned the pepper into a double, causing the defeat of Sylvester Johnson, 1 to 2, after that his Scandinavian proved brilliant ball.

The other defeat was suffered at Pittsburgh yesterday, because Manager Street didn't put in a pinch runner for Gus Mancuso with Gus at second, nobody out and the Cardinals in the sixth inning and because Mancuso didn't take the twisting from the Pirates when Spauldy Adams hit a single to left that should have won the game. The contest went into extra innings. Flint Rhem was put out of the affair by Umpire Guigley in the twelfth and the Pirates won by a run off Jim Lindsey.

If the Cardinals were fighting their way to the top of the league or protecting a one-game lead, Ortel would have been sent in to run for Mancuso. That was done a few times last year and done profitably. Well, why not play the smart, wide-awake baseball they wouldn't it be well to win any possible game.

The sooner, the better. Clinch the pennant early and the Cardinals start time to rest before the big battle with the Mackmen? And wouldn't it be well to lay up all possible victories now, to offset a losing streak that may hit the Redbirds as they go down the stretch?

Of course, it will help the National League race and it will help the pocketbooks of all owners of contending clubs if the Cardinals do lose a club of games, to get down to the race, but the Cardinals don't care about that. If you see travel with professional ball players for 15 years you'll know that no race is ever or will ever be won artificially, by one team's willingly losing even one game.

Today the Redbirds rested. Tomorrow they open a three-game series with the Cubs, the feature of which will be a Sunday afternoon game at Sportsman's Park—that is, unless it rains tomorrow or Saturday, making a double-header ending on Sunday.

Manager Street announced while journeying from Pittsburgh that he would pitch to the Cardinals on Saturday afternoon, with Sylvester Johnson facing the Cubs Saturday and Paul Derringer taking his rest.

ALLISON-VAN RYN TEAM DEFEATED AT SOUTHAMPTON

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, Davis Cup doubles team in 1923 and 1930, today were eliminated in the quarterfinal round of doubles in the Southampton tournament by the unseeded pair of J. Gilbert Hall and E. W. Fiebertman, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Ellsworth Vines Jr. of Pasadena, Cal., and Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, holders of the National clay court doubles tennis title, moved into the quarterfinals with a hard-fought victory over William B. Reese and Edgar Yeomans of Washington. The scores were 7-5, 6-6, 6-6.

Two other favored combinations—John Hope Doeg and George Lott Jr., and the Southern Mid-Western pair of Cliff Sturt and Wilbur Coen Jr. reached the quarterfinals. Play in singles is down to the semifinals, set for tomorrow. In this round Mangin will face Sutter and Lott will meet Vines.

When Mr. Eddy was in St. Louis early this week in conference with local stockholders, it was given out that there was only a remote chance that such a meeting would be held. Since that time the dog track has closed down, presumably removing that competition and aiding the prospect of a successful horse racing meet.

Announcement Due Monday.

At the offices of the Fairmount Jockey Club the secretary in charge reported receiving a long-distance telephone message from Eddy today, in which the Fairmount manager requested that newspapers be informed he would be in St. Louis next Monday and would make an announcement then regarding the possibility of holding a meet.

ROSENBLUM IS EASY WINNER OVER SLATTERY IN TITLE MATCH

BUFFALO BOXER OUTCLASSED BY CHAMPION IN 15-ROUND BOUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The experts may not know how he does it, but Slattery Maxie Rosenbloom, who is popularly supposed to bounce from the night clubs to the ring and then back again, remains the light heavyweight champion of the world.

Maxie disposed definitely of the challenge of Jimmy Slattery last night at Ebbets Field by decisively beating the Buffalo Irishman on points for the second straight time and then hopped out of the ring to keep an engagement on Broadway.

Rosenbloom's victory, although far from being impressive, was much more one-sided than in his previous title match in Buffalo. He received the unanimous verdict of the three officials after 15 rounds of luscious cuffing and clinching.

The bout attracted less than 10,000 cash customers and a "gate" estimated at $35,000, one of the smallest for any title match in New York in years. It was a sharp contrast in every particular to the sensational fight for the same title between Delaney and Berlenbach in 1928 that drew a packed house and nearly a half million "gate" in the same park.

Slattery failed to show a real punch and was unable to cope with Rosenbloom's shifty tactics until it was too late. The Buffalo boy rallied in the last three rounds, winning the thirteenth and fifteenth as he showed real aggressiveness for the first time. He cut Rosenbloom's chin slightly in the thirteenth, but otherwise did no conspicuous damage.

The champion's ability to land with his left hand from random angles, outcut and outwrestle Slattery gave him margins in 11 of the 15 rounds. He weighed 171½ to Slattery's 170½.

MRS. MOODY IS NO. 1 PLAYER ON U. S. CUP TEAM

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Helen Wills Moody, uncrowned queen of American tennis, and Betty Nuthall, British star, lead the Wightman Cup teams of the United States and Great Britain into action tomorrow at Forest Hills, but they are not scheduled to meet in what may be the deciding match of the international series until Saturday.

Chosen the No. 1 players of their teams, Mrs. Moody opens the series of seven matches against Phyllis Mudford, who was placed second on the British list, and Miss Nuthall follows against Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal. The lineup for these two matches will be reversed for the concluding singles matches Saturday with Queen Helen and her British rival staging the final encounter. A third singles match will be played Friday, Mrs. L. A. Harper of Oakland, Cal., first ranking American player and runner-up to Miss Nuthall for the American singles title last fall, meeting Dorothy Round.

The withdrawal Tuesday of Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, Wilmington, Del., veteran, brought a change in the American doubles lineup but it may give the United States a stronger combination. Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, donor of the international trophy, had planned to act as nonplaying captain this year, but when Mrs. Jessup dropped out she decided to step into the breach, and Sarah Palfrey, little Boston star, was added to the team to serve as her doubles partner.

Stagg Starts a Mail Course in Football Work

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—The American college football coaches, already has started priming his and the University of Chicago's fortieth season for the 1931 Big Ten season.

Stagg, who is nearing his sixty-ninth birthday, is doing his preliminary work by mail. He has written to every man regarded as available for football, asking that they get into shape before reporting on the Midway Sept. 15. More letters will follow.

The "old man" points out in the first letter that Joe season, the end of his fourth decade of football, is of especial interest to him and tells each candidate "the responsibility rests heavily on your shoulders to do your part toward bringing happy and successful ending in this final season of the fourth decade and the fortieth of our football history."

PRO GOLFERS IN SECTIONAL PLAY AT SUNSET HILL

The Hard Luck Champion.

League and his name is Frank Shellenbach, pitcher for the Hollywood team. Chastis of organized baseball who grouse because they have to spend two or three years of seasoning in the minors, may consider the case of Shellenbach and be reminded that "things might be worse," no matter how badly off they are.

Except in the case of Shellenbach. No hope there, unless the major league change their rules. Ralph McGill tells the story in the Atlanta Constitution in substance as follows:

Shellenbach has won 20 games pitching for Hollywood this year and lost only 1. That in itself is a better record than Lefty Grove has compiled. Furthermore, he won his last 14 games during the 1930 season. That makes a total of 34 victories and one defeat for the mighty arm.

But the scouts bombard the Hollywood park's gates or imploring the club owners to sign on the dotted line? Are owners offering $100,000 or more for Shellenbach? Is there conjecture as to which club will finally land him and for how much?

There is not. There isn't a mention about Frank going up for any price. That's because he can't. Frank is a spitball pitcher; and spitball pitching is taboo except for the last few surviving relics who are pitching out their careers as permitted by the regulations. No new spitball throwers can come up to the big leagues.

That one rule will prevent the Hollywood club from reaping at least $100,000 cash for this asset, and will keep Shellenbach's salary forever within four figures, when he might have gone up in the Dazzy Vance class.

Little Chance of Change.

While the suggestion has been made that the restrictions against pitching be removed to permit the freak deliveries to return, it is unlikely that the spitball ever will be legalized again.

For one reason the batting and pitching this year have been equaled in the majors by a reduction in the liveliness of the ball, by soiling the new baseballs with earth before they are put in play, thereby reducing visibility and by using fewer new balls, keeping the old ones in play longer.

Batting in the majors has been out to a point where there is not one team hitting .300 as a group. To introduce freak deliveries now would handicap the hitting too greatly. It is probable that the winning batting average in the National League will not be as good as .350 next October.

Man o'War Too Early.

If money-earnings made a world champion, Man o'War would have led the race for turf honors by a wide margin, but for the fact that he was born and flourished 10 years too soon.

Sun Beau, which has been several years accumulating the world's wealthiest looking total in money earned, now boasts a record of $320,044, about "two grand" more than Gallant Fox picked up in two years.

But had Man o'War been racing for modern purses he would have won a total of more than half a million dollars, based on the money paid for the same steeple in 1930, the year Gallant Fox did most of his stuff.

Man o'War's exact total would have been $541,997, without cups or breeder's fees. That is in excess of $200,000 more than Sun Beau has been able to ring up in five years of racing.

Man o'War was retired after his three-year-old campaign. Here's the record of Man o'War's actual earnings, not counting cup prizes and breeding rights, and the sum he would have gained had the stakes he won in 1919-20 been of the same value as they were in 1930:

Eight Amateur Boxers Win Junior Titles in Valley Championships

By W. J. McGoogan.

There is considerable explaining being done today, no doubt, in the homes of those boxing fans who attended the second annual Mississippi Valley amateur boxing tournament at Battery A last night, for the program, which began at 8:30 o'clock, did not wind up until 1:45 o'clock this morning, and some of the boys arrived home just in time to carry in the milk.

They saw plenty of boxing and some quality in the more than five hours they sat on the hard seats at the Battery for there were 24 bouts needed to decide seven of the eight championships while one of them, Mike Kelly, Sherman Park, won the heavyweight title without putting on a glove. There was no opponent for him so he won in a walk.

Huff Has to Work.

But some of the boys had to fight plenty for their medals. Joe Huff of the E. K. A. C. won a hard fought final in the welterweight division of the Tower A. C. in the second round and Tex Saunders of the East St. Louis K. of C. in the third round.

Present rules provide for only one representative from St. Louis, but the local P. G. A. body, known as the Eastern Missouri Division, has taken on new members lately and St. Louis players hope that a second representative will be permitted to play. On a membership basis St. Louis is entitled to two representatives, as one representative is allowed for each 10 members. The local membership is now 20.

The sectional tournament will consist of 36 holes medal play and the contestants will go out in pairs starting at 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. The Sunset course is in good condition for the test.

It was also announced today that the pro-amateur tourney, which had been set for the same date as the sectional event, had been postponed one week.

St. Louis Junior Golf Stars Going to Chicago

Bob Cochran, district junior golf champion, will head a party of about one dozen St. Louis players, who will invade Chicago for the Western Junior Golf Championship tournament, which will be held on the links of the Midlothian Country Club.

Alanson Brown, runner-up in the district tourney, George Schlapp, James Mullen Jr., George Baker, Charles Martin Jr., Buzz Swift, Vincent Pellig and Carl Tietjen, Joe Switzer and others, some of them summering in the vicinity of Chicago, are intending to compete.

Tenpin Meeting.

A meeting of teams which bowled in the Rogers Recreation Handicap League last year will be held at the Rogers alleys tomorrow night at 8 p. m. The league bowls on Friday nights at 9 p. m.

Extremely high frequency at the payoff station.

But boy, that's rubber in them that fingers. In fact they may be slightly stretched. In this way: In the American Association they are using the Wilson baseball which is rubber-cored and very rocket-like.

It was supposed to have undergone some de-rabbing, but the batting figures of the association this year show more homers and higher averages than usual, in many cases. If there is a falling off in some instances it is attributed to the reduction due to change in the sacrifice fly rule. In fact, if Whattaman could be credited with a sacrifice fly every time he scored a man with a long drive, he would be batting over .400.

Shires Has Improved.

It is the conjecture of some observers that the American association's rubber ball is responsible for the high average of Shires; and to prove the point, the performances of Mettler and Manion of the Brewers can also be pointed out. Manion was never a hitter in the major leagues and .270 would have flattered him. Mettler was about the same and for the Browns he hit below that figure.

These men are now batting .368 and .356 respectively and both men are past the age of material improvement.

There isn't much doubt, however, that Shires has improved considerably over his previous major league form. But before he can be accepted at his batting figures we would like to see him take a few taps at some of our big league fences. His hit may not stretch so far with our new ball.

Present rules provide for only one representative from St. Louis, but the local P. G. A. body, known as the Eastern Missouri Division, has taken on new members lately and St. Louis players hope that a second representative will be permitted to play. On a membership basis St. Louis is entitled to two representatives, as one representative is allowed for each 10 members. The local membership is now 20.

The sectional tournament will consist of 36 holes medal play and the contestants will go out in pairs starting at 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. The Sunset course is in good condition for the test.

It was also announced today that the pro-amateur tourney, which had been set for the same date as the sectional event, had been postponed one week.

St. Louis Junior Golf Stars Going to Chicago

Bob Cochran, district junior golf champion, will head a party of about one dozen St. Louis players, who will invade Chicago for the Western Junior Golf Championship tournament, which will be held on the links of the Midlothian Country Club.

Alanson Brown, runner-up in the district tourney, George Schlapp, James Mullen Jr., George Baker, Charles Martin Jr., Buzz Swift, Vincent Pellig and Carl Tietjen, Joe Switzer and others, some of them summering in the vicinity of Chicago, are intending to compete.

Tenpin Meeting.

A meeting of teams which bowled in the Rogers Recreation Handicap League last year will be held at the Rogers alleys tomorrow night at 8 p. m. The league bowls on Friday nights at 9 p. m.

But boy, that's rubber in them that fingers. In fact they may be slightly stretched. In this way: In the American Association they are using the Wilson baseball which is rubber-cored and very rocket-like.

It was supposed to have undergone some de-rabbing, but the batting figures of the association this year show more homers and higher averages than usual, in many cases. If there is a falling off in some instances it is attributed to the reduction due to change in the sacrifice fly rule. In fact, if Whattaman could be credited with a sacrifice fly every time he scored a man with a long drive, he would be batting over .400.

Shires Has Improved.

It is the conjecture of some observers that the American association's rubber ball is responsible for the high average of Shires; and to prove the point, the performances of Mettler and Manion of the Brewers can also be pointed out. Manion was never a hitter in the major leagues and .270 would have flattered him. Mettler was about the same and for the Browns he hit below that figure.

These men are now batting .368 and .356 respectively and both men are past the age of material improvement.

There isn't much doubt, however, that Shires has improved considerably over his previous major league form. But before he can be accepted at his batting figures we would like to see him take a few taps at some of our big league fences. His hit may not stretch so far with our new ball.

Benny Leonard, Retired Since 1925, Announces His Return to Ring; Jack Kearns His Manager

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Benny Leonard, who quit the ring as king of the lightweights six years ago on the appeal of his mother and with a fortune reputed to be $500,000, has decided to stage a comeback. He says so himself and so does Dapper Jack Kearns, former pilot of Jack Dempsey, present manager of Mickey Walker and now Leonard's comeback mentor on a five-year contract.

Kearns launched the ballyhoo today for Leonard with the statement that Benny would do everything from "defending" the lightweight crown he relinquished in 1925, to campaigning for welterweight and middleweight honors among the present crop of gladiators.

Before he was introduced last night at the Slattery-Rosenbloom fight, Leonard admitted he weighed 149, two pounds over the welterweight limit and 14 pounds more than the lightweight limit, which Benny was having difficulty making as far back as 1923. On this basis, the prospect that Leonard again will mix in lightweight company is so remote as to be invisible.

Retired Six Years Ago.

There are few precedents for a comeback after so long a period of fistic inactivity as Leonard has experienced. Jim Jeffries tried unsuccessfully to come back as the "White Hope" in 1910, after nearly five years of retirement. Leonard began fighting professionally in 1912, won the world lightweight title from Freddy Ward in 1917 and retired in 1925.

REASON WHY ALEMITE MOTOR OIL is SAFE...SURE...SUPERIOR

1 Perfected by the new, exclusive Alemit Process of refining from Selected 100% Pure Pennsylvania Crude Oils, the finest base known to lubricating science.

2 Rugged, full-bodied, extremely "oily." Holding its body under the severest driving conditions. Sealing piston power with new efficiency. Fighting bearing wear.

3 Heat Resisting! Extreme motor heats, hot summer days and high speeds will not harm its full lubricating qualities.

4 Cold Resisting! No solidifying at intense colds. Full lubrication from the first turnover of your motor.

5 No wasteful evaporation or loss under high motor temperatures. No thinning out.

6 Thoroughly freed from impurities which cause sticky valves and stuck piston rings.

7 Keeps your motor clean by minimizing carbon deposit.

8 More Power! More Gas Mileage! Because it reduces friction drag.

Drain and refill today with Alemit Motor Oil. The result of 10 years of intensive test by the nation's foremost authority on automotive lubrication!

EDDIE TERRY TO BATTLE WARD AT BATTERY ARENA

Sammy Ward, hard punching Fort Worth (Tex.) lightweight, and Eddie Terry, clever South Side scrapper, have signed to box in the third 10-round bout on Jack C. Tippet's fight show next Monday night at the Battery A open-air arena.

Ward, who has beaten Tony Heron, well-known Southern fighter, and an array of Southern fighters, previously had signed to battle Lou Tipton, popular South Side lightweight, in the feature bout on last Monday night's fight card, which was called off. He is an experienced battler, and a victory for young Terry will prove that the local youth is ready to meet tougher opposition.

Eddie Terry has been seeking a match with Lou Terry, and if he defeats Ward, Matchmaker Tippet will give him the chance to take on the veteran Carondelet at a date. The Terry's, by the way, are no relation, but Eddie is brother of the local flyweight, Pee-wee Terry.

As an amateur Eddie wore the district featherweight crown and continued his winning ways in the professional ranks. One of his recent battles saw him lose a close decision to Ervin Berlier, Southern fighter, who even a victory over Eddie "Kid" Wolfe of Memphis.

Dave Abad, flashy Panama battler, is also set for his 10-round bout with Lou Terry. Terry, too, is working out in a diligent manner.

TOMMY ARMOUR LOSES

MICHIGAN OPEN BY A STROKE TO DETROITER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 6.

Tommy Armour, British open champion, today had lost the 1931 Michigan open championship to Charles Kocis, 18, a Detroit amateur.

Kocis yesterday turned in a 75, one over par, while Armour carded 74 over the Cascade course.

The playoff became necessary when both turned in 28s for 72 holes, which is exactly par.

for he is eager to put up an impressive showing with Abad.

Another 10-rounder will be fought by Dave Barry of Springfield, Ill., and Johnny McCoy of Buffalo. McCoy is a veteran, and should prove a tough opponent for Barry, who has beaten an array of local 118-pounders.

Weather clear; track fast.

Carnera May Be Reinstated in Pennsylvania

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—The conditional reinstatement of Primo Carnera and George Godfrey, giant heavyweight, has been decided upon by the State Athletic Commission subject to the consent of the fighters to meet in a Pennsylvania ring within the next 60 days.

The two boxers have been under suspension in this State since June 23, 1930. Godfrey's license was revoked and $5000 of his $10,000 purse confiscated because he was said to have deliberately fouled Carnera in the fifth round of a fight the night previous.

Carnera and his handlers were barred after the handlers were charged with assaulting an inspector of the State Athletic Commission in the dressing rooms before the fight.

The commission indefinitely suspended Tiny Roubuck of Washington, D. C., and George Zaharias of Pueblo, Colo., for "unsatisfactory services" in their wrestling bout here July 24.

Herman Wolf, the referee in the match, was also indefinitely suspended for "incompetency."

AUSTRALIA-ENGLAND FLIGHT IN EIGHT DAYS AND 13 HOURS

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 5.—J. A. Mollison landed at Pevensey Bay, near Eastbourne, from Rome at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, breaking the Australia-to-England flying record of 10 days and 23 hours established by Lieut. C. W. A. Scott.

He started from Wyndham, West Australia, and was held up by bad weather at several points en route. Unofficial figures made the time of his trip eight days, 13 hours and 15 minutes.

Edward Truman Ran in Path of Car, Driver Says.
Edward Truman, 2 years old, 2307 Macklind avenue, suffered fractures of the skull and legs yesterday, when struck by an automobile in the 6700 block of Hoffman avenue.

William Mattingly, an automobile mechanic, 7019 Tholozan avenue, reported the boy ran from behind a parked car into the path of the machine, which Mattingly was testing. Edward, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Truman, is at St. Mary's Hospital.

NEW MOVE TO END LABOR DISPUTE AT NURSES' HOME

Electricians' Union Agent Asked to Submit Terms Under Which Men Will Work.

Another conference was held yesterday at City Hall in an effort to adjust labor difficulties which have delayed construction of the new $600,000 nurses' home at City Hospital nearly two months.

Contractors and union representatives met with President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service and it was agreed that Henry P. Koenig, business agent for the Electricians' Union, would submit in writing today conditions under which union electricians would work for the Sunlight Electric Co., holding the contract for electrical installation.

As the work was stopped when other workmen refused to remain on the job with Sunlight company men, who are not recognized by the union, it was hoped that Koenig's outline of conditions for a settlement would be acceptable.

WORKMAN IS ELECTROCUTED IN EAST ALTON, ILL., PLANT

Milton E. Amrus, 29-year-old employee of the Western Cartridge Co., East Alton, Ill., was electrocuted yesterday afternoon when he came in contact with a power line used to operate electric furnaces in the brass mill. Employees tried in vain to resuscitate Amrus with an inhalator.

The accident occurred in a sub-basement about four feet below the casting shop of the brass mill. Amdrus was employed in another section of the plant and no one could explain his presence there. His father, C. B. Amrus, is a foreman in the plant.

Duncan Sisters Settle Suit.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 5.—Attorneys for Vivian and Rosetta Duncan, motion picture and stage players, have announced settlement out of court of a $10,000 damage suit brought by the sisters against J. I. Angus, their former business representative. Superior Judge Charles B. McCoy dismissed the case. The Duncan sisters asserted they gave Angus the money to meet certain obligations and that it was misapplied. Angus filed a cross complaint declaring they owed him $383.

Another Williams Oil-O-Matic Triumph! America's lowest priced quality oil burner

HERE is genuine Oil-O-Matic heating for smaller homes, embodying one of the greatest advancements ever made in oil burner design, yet at the same time lower in price than any Oil-O-Matic in history!

Every feature that has made Oil-O-Matic the most widely used oil heating in the world is found in this new low priced Model K. The famous Williams Diffusor, for instance, in conjunction with an altogether new type of Flame Projector, makes possible a new quietness, known as HUSHED HEAT.

Low cost fuel oil is burned—instead of the costlier light distillates required by most other burners. It burns cleanly in mid-air, without soot or carbon. This lower priced and better fuel will save you hundreds of dollars.

Williams Oil-O-Matic is the standard of the world in satisfying reliability—a fact certified by more than 100,000 owners. All this proved reliability, plus HUSHED HEAT, may now be had at a price to suit the most modest household. And the Williams Budget Payment Plan makes the buying very, very easy.

STUDEBAKER Splendor Cars

COME to this carnival of custom colors that constitutes the coronation ceremonies of Free Wheeling—inaugurating Studebaker's second year of Free Wheeling with the motor car industry's first offering of Free Color Schemes!

Another tradition of motor car limitation is dead. Another era of motor car beauty is born. And Studebaker once again is the directing hand in the transition from old to new!

Here is literally a motor car show of custom car shades at standard car prices... as great an achievement in an ornamental sense as Free Wheeling in a fundamental sense!

These Studebaker Splendor Cars, costing no more than ordinary cars, are lavishly finished in Seal Brown... in a new shade of Beige... in the regal Mulberry of monarchy... with belt mouldings of Beaver, Gray or Maroon. They're self fendered to match or black fendered for contrast... they have wire wheels and stripings in combinations of Cardinal, Cadmium, Gold, Silver and Bronze!

Thus Studebaker, first to introduce Free Wheeling for economy and personal safety, is now also first to introduce custom colors for beauty and personal pride... another "extra" without extra cost.

This carnival of colors is also a carnival of momentum—auspiciously celebrating the triumph of three Studebaker Eights that have just scored an official 32% saving from New York to Seattle... traveling 24,367 measured miles while registering 16,396 engine miles!

Come visit this special showing of the smartest motor car productions of 1931... Studebaker Splendor Cars with custom colors that cost no more than ordinary colors. Even if you don't want a new car at the moment, you'll want to see the car you would want if you were buying one. You'll find this Studebaker carnival of colors a carnival of thrills!

Fifteen Other Cars Have Adopted free wheeling and others are fast coming to it, but obviously Free Wheeling pioneered by Studebaker is Free Wheeling in its finest form... first because it is under positive gear control... second, because it is built in as an integral part of the mechanism... and finally because this greatest of all motor car "extras" involves no extra cost to you.

TOKIO, Aug. 6.—A nonstop race between two monoplane pilots from Tokyo to Seattle, with a large cash award awaiting the winner, appeared as a possibility today with the arrival here by airplane and boat of four American aviators.

Hugh Herndon Jr. and Clyde Pangborn, who abandoned a round-the-world race in quest of the record set by Wiley Post and Harold Goettl, landed at Haneda airfield near here at 5:50 p. m. (2:50 a. m. St. Louis time) today from Khabarovsk, Siberia. The latter came to Tokyo by ship.

A damaged wing and unfavorable weather had held them at Khabarovsk until their record-breaking aspirations were glimmering. They left Khabarovsk at 6:56 a. m. today with the announcement they would come to Japan to attempt a nonstop flight to Seattle.

Seattle's $25,000 Offer.
Don Moyle and C. A. Allen arrived on the M. S. Chichibu Maru from the United States with the announcement that they were contemplating a nonstop flight to the Puget Sound metropolis in the monoplane City of Tacoma, now in a hangar at Tachikawa airfield.

Seattle has offered a $25,000 prize for the first pilot making the flight. Moyle and Allen brought with them a new tail assembly and a supercharger for the plane in which the two trans-Pacific flights have been carried.

The City of Tacoma was brought to Japan last year by Harold Bromley and Harold Gatty, the latter Wiley Post's partner on the recent world-gridding flight. That required only eight days 15 hours and 21 minutes. Bromley and Gatty flew 1200 miles toward their announced destination, Tacoma, Wash. Then a broken exhaust collector ring forced them back.

Subsequently Thomas Ash, another American aviator, decided to fly the North Pacific in the City of Tacoma. He renamed the plane the "Pacific" and flew it to San Francisco Beach, but was unable to fly the ship from the sand with its heavy load of gasoline.

Difficulty About Duties.
Moyle and Allen faced a problem in duties payments amounting to $1400 due on the plane Aug. 12. They said they would seek an extension.

For a time it was feared Pangborn and Herndon also would encounter difficulty with Japanese officials. When news of their departure from Khabarovsk was flashed to the Rengo News Agency here, the Japanese Aviation Bureau said their plane might be confiscated in the event they landed in Japan without a permit.

The American Embassy arranged to file a landing application in behalf of the flyers, however, and in view of this action the Aviation Bureau told the Rengo News Agency the permit would be granted.

Pangborn and Herndon were in excellent spirits despite the fact their efforts to beat the record of Post and Gatty had been abandoned.

Greeted by Scattered Crowd.
The Americans said they had an interesting flight from Khabarovsk. They started southeast and crossed the Japan Sea, then flew over Honshu and followed the east coast of Honshu.

Herndon told reporters he would make a definite announcement regarding his plans for a trans-Pacific flight.

A scattered crowd greeted the Americans as most of the population, which had greeted Miss Amy Johnson, British flyer, on her arrival from London, had started home before the pair arrived. But the crowd hurried back to the field when the big monoplane came into view. Many Japanese children waved flags and the Japanese officials hurriedly gave the flyers an informal welcome. Representatives of the American Embassy greeted the flyers also.

Pangborn and Herndon were detained at the Tachikawa Airfield for three hours by Aviation Bureau officials who questioned them regarding their radio set and, particularly, a camera found in their plane. Officials asserted that in the emergency landing application filed by the American Embassy nothing was said concerning the camera or radio.

A the airfield it was said that in view of the circumstances of the arrival, the Ministry of Communications had asked the police to keep a watch over them.

Wilkins Resumes Polar Trip;
Tromsø, Norway, Next StopFirst of Two Halts for Fuel Before Nautilus Goes Under Arctic Ice—Trouble With Steering Gear.

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS.

(Copyright, 1931.)

ABOARD SUBMARINE NAU-TILUS, EN ROUTE TO TROM-SØ, Norway, Aug. 5.—The Nautilus braved the open Atlantic again tonight and now that we are bearing northward toward Arctic waters we feel that our expedition under the ice to the North Pole has really begun.

Our friends and the Norwegian naval officers who have been our hosts for the past several days gave us a rousing sendoff when the Nautilus slipped out of Bergen this afternoon, crossed down the fjord to the Atlantic and then turned her blunt nose northward toward Tromsø, where we will make the first of two refueling stops before submerging under the ice.

Pilot Bretford is in the conning tower. He will see our iron whale through to Tromsø along the 800 miles of treacherous coastline to that Northern Norwegian port.

We began making preparations for the start at 8 a. m., when both the submarine's engines were started up to charge our batteries for the long run. By 4 p. m. our crew had carried ashore the comparatively light clothing that had served them thus far and stored it in a naval warehouse for our return. Thus they abandoned the last symbols of civilization. Henceforth they will live in sub-Arctic dress until the time comes for them to don the heavy woollens that will be needed above the Arctic Circle. This clothing, our provisions and scientific equipment jam every available bit of space on the gallant little ship.

At 4:30 p. m. the friends who lined the narrow deck of the Nautilus part and ashore and Capt.
Sloan Danenhower gave the order to cast off. As we slipped away from the wharf the gallant little ship, commanded on the shore broke into nine rousing cheers.

Commandant Moe of the Bergen navy yard, Mrs. Sverdrup, Mrs.
Danenhower and other friends and guests put in a navy launch to follow the Nautilus toward the ocean. From the yard head waved the Union Jack and the cross of Norway. In Sverdrup's honor, the German flag for Herr Villinger, our German scientist, while from our masthead unfurled the Stars and Stripes.

Brilliant sunshine bathed the Nautilus' gray sides as we set a tortuous course down Morsfjord.
The hearty cheers of our crew and those ashore subdued any tears that might have welled into the eyes of our loved ones at parting. All was bright and gay. We dipped our flag to the French gunboat in the harbor and then to the German flag waving from a tourist steamer.

Motorboats, rowboats and small craft of every description flocked about us, the occupants waving wildly and shouting "Good luck."

Last Minute Trouble.
Outside the inner harbor, the Nautilus stopped a moment to pick up the movie photographer who is going as far as Spitzbergen with us. At that time the Commandant's boat bearing the ladies came alongside and toasts were drunk to all.

Our start was delayed for about 20 minutes by some slight trouble with the electric steering gear. At 8 p.
m. we left the fjord behind and turned northward.

Last minute changes in the crew has reduced our number by one.
Electrician Lundbeck has returned to the United States. Harry Rothschild, our cook, has been replaced by a Norwegian named Stamnes.

Sigurd Johnson, our carpenter, originally engaged for the cross-Atlantic trip only, is remaining in Bergen, his home town. He gave us splendid service.

Our crew, heartened by the fine weather and the cheery Norwegian hospitality, is hopeful that if things go well, they will have plenty of time to accomplish much after leaving Tromsø.

Today's move by the neutrals came after an expression of willingness on the part of the Bolivian Government to study a pact "to guarantee peace and tranquillity" in the Chaco area and looking to resumption of negotiations which would "carry the territorial con-trovercy to an equitable and final ending."

Service payments hereafter are to be governed by arrangements made between the Haitian Financial Minister and the Financial Adviser. The agreement provides that the Haitian Government shall keep its expenditures within the limits of appropriations made with the accord of the Financial Adviser, and will agree with the Financial Adviser regarding measures affecting sources of revenue.

The land title registry office is transferred from the office of the Financial Adviser to the Ministry of Finance.

The Government of Haiti agrees to indemnify American civilian officials and employees of the technical service who may be retained under contract. The two Governments agree to continue their discussions regarding problems arising from the treaty and that existing laws and agreements be maintained and respected pending settlements of controversial questions, and that the U. S. Marines, com-

Thousands of spectators cheered as the flyers were welcomed on their arrival at the Bebek Gardens on the Bosphorus by 60 Turkish sportswomen. Boardman and they intended to leave Istanbul Sat-decided on their destination. They were informed that the city is pre-

Within a few hours a denial issued from the President's office. It was stated officially that the President was not addicted to gum drops, and that the box
brought by Nutt contained cigars.
In support of this statement, a box
of cigars was sent out to the White House pressroom and solemnly exhibited to the correspondents as the box which Nutt had delivered.

Convinced by the explanation and
accompanying evidence that the President was not a gum drop fan-cier, the reporters sought to unravel the mystery of Nutt's statement. Was it possible, they asked,
that a Republican national treasurer, a leading banker of Cleveland, couldn't tell cigars from gum drops, especially when he had purchased them? It seemed unreasonable. And it seemed equally unreasonable that he would perpetrate such a joke on the President, especially when it had so recently been made plain at the White House that Mr. Hoover resented publicity concerning his personal habits.

One reporter might have understood Nutt to say "gum drops" when he actually said "cigars," but in this instance several reporters not only heard him say "gum drops," but also name a particular brand.

Within a few hours a denial
issued from the President's of-

the President was not addicted to
gum drops, and that the box
brought by Nutt contained cigars.
In support of this statement, a box
of cigars was sent out to the White House pressroom and solemnly exhibited to the correspondents as the
box which Nutt had delivered.

Convinced by the explanation and
accompanying evidence that the President was not a gum drop fan-
cier, the reporters sought to unravel the mystery of Nutt's statement. Was it possible, they asked,
that a Republican national treasurer, a leading banker of Cleve-

drops, especially when he had purchased them? It seemed unreason-

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Capitalism, Communism and Democracy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE cartoon in last Sunday's issue of your paper gave the wrong impression. It would lead one to believe that capitalism is all right, but that greed had crept in, and that the thing to do is to expel greed from its sanctuary. Greed is not a fault of capitalism, but a fault of the human race. Capitalism is a system that exalts the weakness of humanity, and the inevitable result is a spirit of greed that knows no bounds.

The two extremes of political thought today are represented by capitalism and communism. The one exalts greed and measures individual success solely by material accumulation. The other has a tendency to destroy individual initiative and accomplishment. Capitalism would place the control of all property in the hands of the few. Communism would place control of all property in the hands of the state. There is not a stone's throw between the results of these extremes of political thought. They both lead to dictatorship. Capitalism means a dictatorship of financial and industrial capitalists. Communism means a dictatorship by government officials. Dictatorship means bloodshed and suffering for the masses of the people. Therefore, both capitalism and communism should be relegated to the scrap heap.

A real democracy is the only system that considers the imperfections of mankind and provides a check on these faults. Under a system of real democracy (not the brand handed to us by professional Democratic politicians), an individual could acquire, without exploitation, material wealth for his own use; but a limit would be placed on his acquisitiveness. Real democracy would not destroy all desire to accumulate by going to the extreme of communism. Real democracy is a straight and narrow road between Hoover's "rugged individualism" and Karl Marx's "dictatorship of the proletariat." It is a safe road for any nation to follow. It leads to peace, happiness, welfare and prosperity for all our people, instead of satisfying the greed and avarice of a favored few. R. W. TUCKER, Batesville, Ark.

Tower Grove Park's Water Lilies.

MY wife and I are making an automobile tour of our great country. We have gone through many cities and seen many pretty sights, but the most beautiful of all we discovered in your Tower Grove Park on Grand boulevard. We came through there Saturday evening about 9:30 and were attracted by the large electric spotlights that shine over the lily lakes. To our surprise, we discovered the finest water lily display we have ever seen. We saw this in your lily pond, because we have missed very little of the best attractions in our travels.

To the officials and employees of this park, my wife and I wish to express our appreciation for their great work, and many thanks to you for publishing our letter in your paper so that other tourists may notice it and see this beauty spot.

Suburbanite Explodes in Indignation.

As a resident of one of the county's finest suburbs, a suburb noted for the liberality of its laws, the efficiency of its police department, the wideness of its streets, the absence of its alleys and the wholesome purity of the air its free-born citizens breathe, I resent the base calumny regarding the size of our city that appeared in this column recently. I speak, sir, of, by and for Richmond Heights.

A Webster Groves motorist declared: "Richmond Heights takes in a section of Big Bend road bordered approximately by Clayton and Dale avenues." By the divorce laws of Arkansas, does even the dictionary lack authority in these days of speeding motorists? Approximately, sir, the southern boundaries of our fair metropolis are fully a mile south of Dale avenue. Those bungalows, those vacant lots, those filling stations you see south of our stately City Hall are all in Richmond Heights. Never make Richmond Heights smaller than it is! The fairest jewel in the county's crown, bounded—but not constrained—by Maplewood and Clayton, proudly conscious of its own city limits and profoundly contemptuous of Webster Groves. This gentleman, is Richmond Heights. I might mention, too, that our northern city limits are on Clayton road, not Clayton avenue.

I know my effort is altogether too feeble to do justice to Richmond Heights and to express the indignation that surges in the breasts of its stalwart citizens. Only the secretary of an active Rotary Club could answer so vile a slander. And I don't believe we have a Rotary Club. Our urge to slap each other's backs, use nicknames, eat roast beef on Thursday and sing while sober is sublimated through political meetings, card parties and successful social experiments with the unsuccessful social experiment. But we have city limits, a police department and a jail. I feel that I speak for an outraged citizenry when I say that I hope that when next that vile slanderer gets within the first, the second catches him and throws him into the third.

CONGRESS AND THE ANTI-TRUST LAWS.

Nothing that will arise in the new Congress will more severely test the wisdom of that body than the problem as to the anti-trust laws.

Complaint that the anti-trust laws stand in the way of co-operative agreements necessary to modern industry are insistent. They come chiefly from those who would, except for the Sherman and Clayton acts, subject the country to even greater excesses than those from which we suffer now. When Chairman Raskob, whose sympathy for this view has, in our opinion, disqualified him for the office he holds, expressed at a meeting of the Democratic National Committee in Washington some months ago sympathy with the proposal of the United States Chamber of Commerce and other commercial and industrial interests that the anti-trust laws be liberalized, he aroused great resentment in the party, particularly in the South and West. Perhaps what Samuel Untermyer said in an address before the University Club of Los Angeles last February is the truest thing any one has recently said about the anti-trust laws. Said Mr. Untermyer:

I believe that the Sherman and Clayton acts, if aggressively and impartially enforced, would have eliminated the monopolies that have now accumulated and from which the country is suffering. These monopolies have buried their tentacles so deeply into its economic life that any genuine attempt now made to enforce those laws would lead to a cataclysm in the business and financial world. I am satisfied it was largely because of the fear of the disaster to business that would have followed that dissolution of the United States Steel Corporation was refused by the courts, and these same courts have destroyed to a degree the efficiency of the laws by their decisions limiting the power of the Federal Trade Commission. It all comes at last to a situation in which the anti-trust laws are as much of a reproach to our administration of justice as is the prohibition law.

We lost our way under the Sherman and Clayton acts when we interposed the rule of reason. The rule of reason made the law a respecter of trusts, and it was under this rule that the Steel Corporation escaped dissolution. Giant though it was, it was in the opinion of the United States Supreme Court a beneficial monopoly. That is, it had power to crush its lesser competitors, but it did not suppress them.

The appearance upon the scene of a trust that could escape dissolution under the Clayton and Sherman acts proved the undoing of those laws. The Government is, of course, the judge of whether or not monopolies are in violation of the anti-trust laws. The giant industrial corporations had only to capture the Government to make themselves sacrosanct in the Government's eyes, and that is precisely what they did. With the coming of the Harding administration, the tumult and shouting against monopoly which had arisen in the Roosevelt terms was completely stilled. Attorney General Sargent made the Coolidge regime the heyday of monopoly in the United States. In the generous vision of that dilatory arbiter of our industrial science, there were no bad trusts and whatever monopoly would do it did.

Attorney General Mitchell did some very plain speaking upon this subject last May before the Law School Association of the University of Minnesota. He corroborated what Mr. Untermyer had already said about the difficulty of making good now the neglect of the past. It is especially hard, he said, to enforce the anti-trust laws in a business depression. Nevertheless, he served upon all those who have sought to use the business depression by gaining greater license for themselves notice that the Government can neither declare a moratorium upon the anti-trust laws nor has any intention of shelving them. Mr. Mitchell said: The anti-trust laws have a double purpose. They are to protect the consumer against exorbitant prices and to prevent the oppression of the small business man and insure to the average individual freedom to engage in trade and commerce.

One specific suggestion for amendment of anti-trust laws has been that the Federal Trade Commission be authorized to consider proposed contracts or mergers, and advise business men in advance whether the proposals would violate the law.

My notion is that if the proposal for the Federal Trade Commission to consider these matters in advance and give advisory opinion were put into practice under an amendment to the law, questions would be continually arising whether the things actually done went beyond the proposal submitted.

From this point of view, the efficacy of the proposal to have such advisory opinions in advance is, to say the least, doubtful. Mr. Mitchell's declarations have at once disquieted monopoly and heartened the opposition. This is a very grave public question, and one that the country must perforce face. The notion that monopoly is a good thing, and that it is something indispensable to modern industrialism, is as subtle a poison as ever lured a people into a false sense of security. Nothing is more obvious than that the growth of monopoly, with its consequent over-capitalization, is one of the prime causes of the business depression in the United States. There is hardly a city west of the Alleghenies that has not felt the paralyzing effects of having its industries absorbed by trusts and their executives removed to some far-away financial center.

If the present anti-trust laws can no longer serve the interests of the country, it is because we have tampered with them. In that case, we need an honest government to make them mean what they say.

THE JUDGE AND THE RABBIT.

This is not a bedtime story. It concerns the remarkable manner in which the electrical rabbit at the Madison Kennel Club plays dead when Judge Louis Bernreuter appears upon the scene. While the Judge was holding court in another county last June, the club decided to hold a summer session of dog racing, but changed its mind on the noon of the opening date. The club announced that the postponement was due to a "breakdown of the mechanism which operates the electrical rabbit." The real reason, however, was that the Judge had unexpectedly returned to Madison County and the dog track officials were afraid that he would plaster the track with an injunction, as he did in the case of the Kingshighway Kennel Club.

It took a long time for the rabbit to recover from the paralyzing influence of the Judge's presence, and it did not perk up until he left for Colorado on a vacation. A week ago yesterday the long-deferred opening was held, followed by five evenings of racing. Sheriff Fitzgerald, who was elected to office on a law enforcement program, refused to interfere, saying he was tired of the subject and did not care to discuss it. In the meantime, the Judge cut off his vacation and returned, whereupon the rabbit again played dead. The dog officials this time attempted no explanation of their action in closing down after

Tuesday night's races were over. Why make a blueprint of the obvious?

The incident illustrates what one incorruptible public official can do when he sets out to enforce the law. Judge Bernreuter is not a Madison County man, but alone and single-handed he has done more to clean up the gambling joints and robbers' roosts over there than all the Madison County officials combined.

OKLAHOMA'S OIL MORATORIUM.

Gov. Murray of Oklahoma apparently has the sanction of law for his sensational action in closing the oil wells of the State, excepting only those whose average daily production does not exceed 25 barrels. The State conservation law makes it illegal to produce oil at a price below the cost of production. The price is now 50 cents a barrel, which the Governor manifestly construes to be below the cost of production and, therefore, authorizes his procedure. He has fixed $1 a barrel as the minimum operating price. The low price of oil is peculiarly embarrassing to Oklahoma. The State derives a large part of its revenue from oil—through the general production tax and the royalties from production on school lands. Oil has furnished the money for Oklahoma's phenomenal growth. Oil has been Oklahoma's meal ticket. With this source of revenue dried up, the State will have to redraft its tax laws. It may be doubted if any tax system can be devised by which, in the absence of the once abundant income from oil, the State can continue to live in the manner to which it has been accustomed.

Yet the Governor of Oklahoma seems to be attempting the impossible. The law of supply and demand is a hard-boiled statute, grimly derivative of constitutional mandates, legislative aspirations or executive decrees. It were a happy solution if the Governor of Oklahoma could double the price of oil by mobilizing the National Guard under the banner of an ipse dixit. If Oklahoma could do that with oil, it could do it with cotton and zinc, and so, presumably, could every other state. Here, indeed, would be a panacea for all the ills with which our impoverished plenty has afflicted us. Unfortunately, no such easy way out may be charted.

Too much oil. Following Oklahoma's closure comes the announcement that the East Texas field is gushingly ready to furnish all the oil that refineries may require for 15 cents a barrel. Meantime, Venezuela and Russia are spouting oil in torrentially spreading streams.

"Alfalfa Bill" is tackling a wilder ocean than King Canute tried to turn back. His moratorium will aggravate Oklahoma's unemployment condition, but that it will attain or even approach its objective of $1 a barrel seems doubtful.

TOUCHES OF MADNESS.

In a few days the hope of millions of people will sail from India in the steamer to attend the resumption of the round table conference in London. At his baggage the world will be disposed to laugh. A spinning wheel, two goats, an extra loin cloth—little, if any, more. First-class passage at the expense of the Empire was his if he willed, but he has chosen to sleep on straw on deck under the stars. In London he could have the choice of convenient and comfortable accommodations, but instead he will go each evening to the dreary welfare settlement district in Fowls road, Bow. There he will lift his frail form 100 steps to a rooftop cell in Kingsley Hall—at home among the kind of people for whom he has worked 35 years. Touches of madness? Yes, both, but in them lie the physical symbols of an intellectual independence that a race looks to for deliverance. Once Mr. Justice Holmes wrote: "To an imagination of any scope, the most far-reaching form of power is not money; it is the command of ideas." To such an imagination, Gandhi, called the Mahatma, is making world history as is no other man of his time.

THE DISTRESS AMONG COAL MINERS.

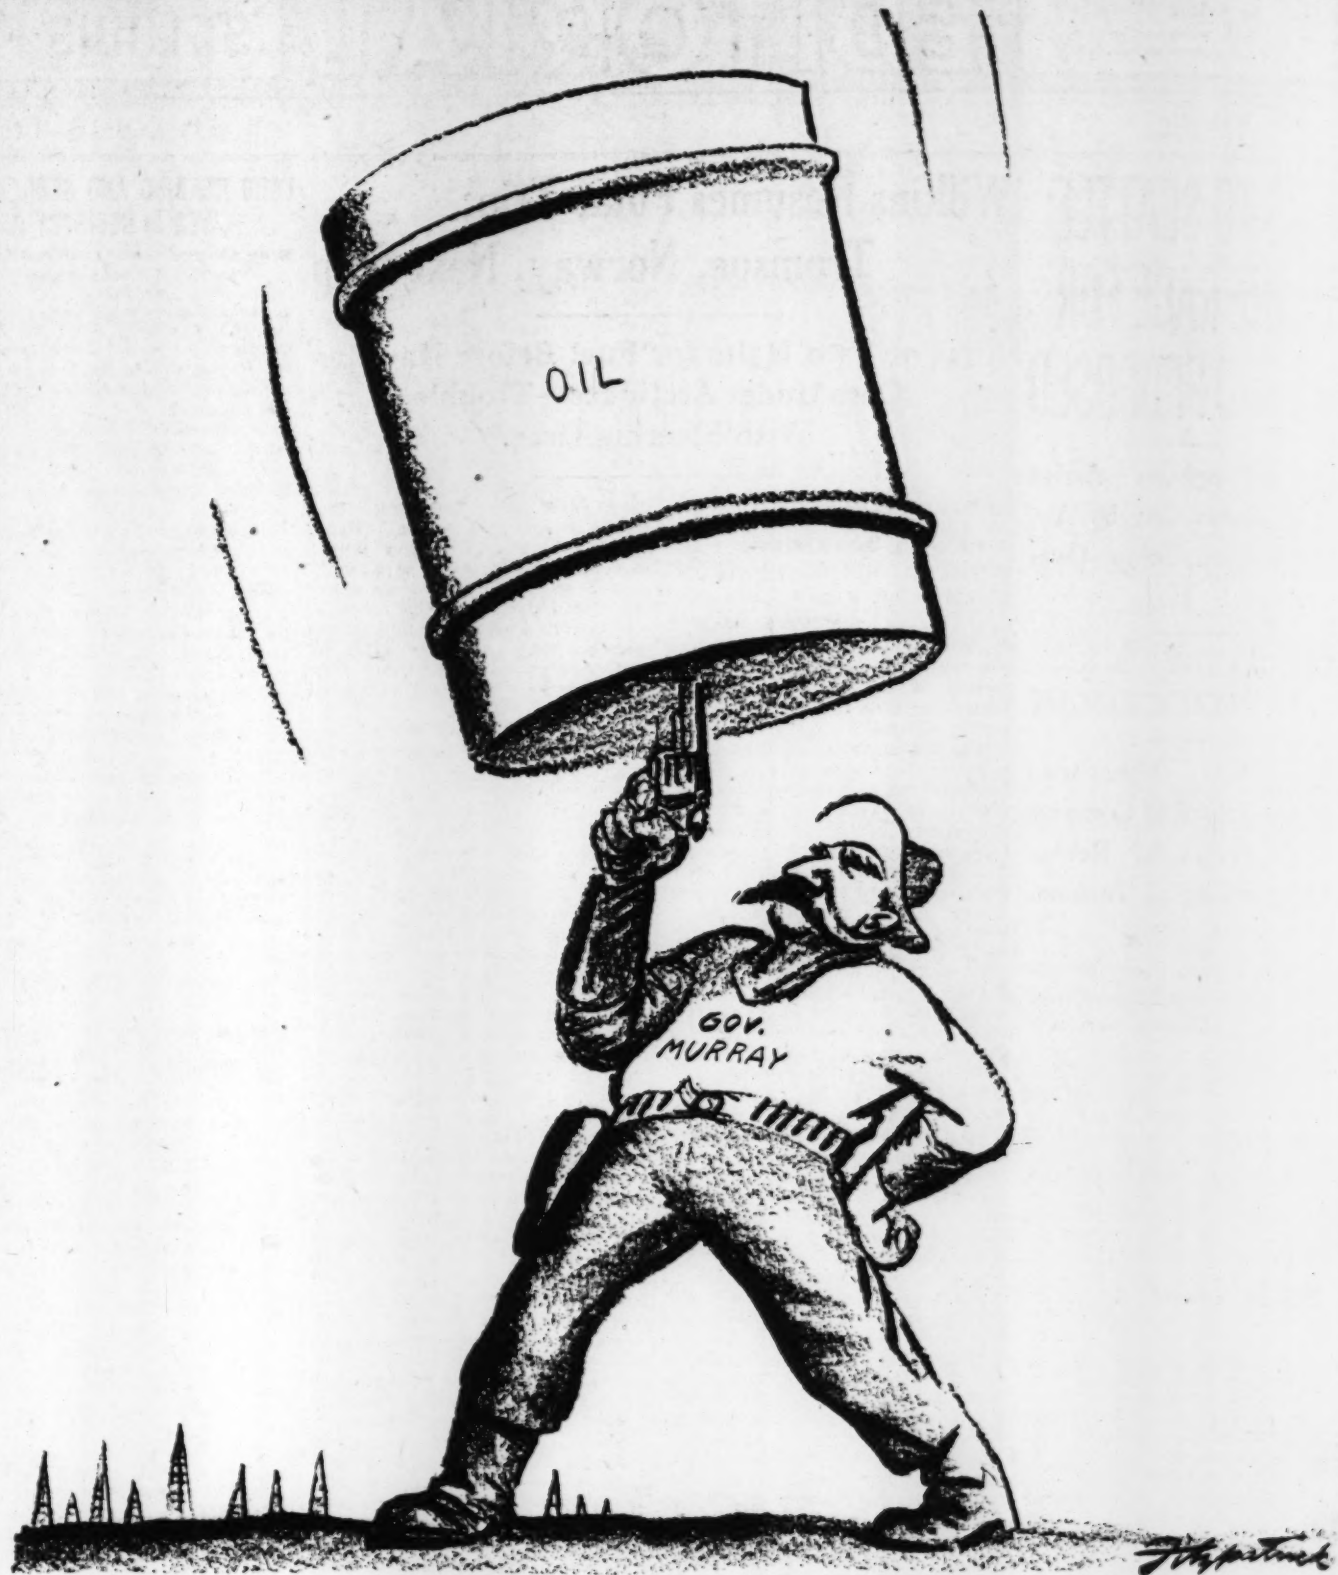

At a time when the whole country is feeling the pinch of depression, it is easy to overlook the fact that a bitter strike is going forward in the coal mining regions of Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky. Strike leaders, most of them representatives of the oldest American stocks, whose fathers and grandfathers before them have mined coal, say that it was a choice of starve or work or starve and strike. The coal industry has fallen upon evil days, and the desperate mine owners have tried to save a margin of profit by paring down workers' wages until incomes dropped as low as $10 and $12 a week.

Whatever the merits of the dispute, the fact is that some 40,000 miners, their wives and children now face hunger. The Red Cross has ruled that since this is not an act of God, it can give no help. Volunteer committees are being formed in St. Louis and elsewhere, enlisting the aid of such distinguished humanitarians as Theodore Dreiser, Sherwood Anderson, Sinclair Lewis and others. Certainly it seems that the plight of the striking miner and his helpless dependents, with no official source of charity, is much worse than that of the unemployed in large cities. The latter may still turn to community and civic agencies for aid. The relief committees deserve all praise for their efforts to provide some sort of housing and sufficient clothes to prevent the intense suffering that must otherwise follow next winter.

SWEDEN SHOWS THE WAY.

Sweden's movement to impart to ordinary household utensils the principles of artistic design has taken hold in England. A committee appointed by the British Board of Trade is considering the advisability of establishing permanent exhibitions of articles in everyday use, from kitchen pots and pans to living room vases, to stimulate interest in good design. The purpose is not to add useless ornamentation to such articles; on the contrary, it is to adapt them to the uses for which they are made while giving style and dignity to their composition. In addition to the form, the materials employed are to be chosen for their adaptability for the job they are asked to perform.

We trust this idea will be extended to the United States, the products of whose mass production are hardly noted for beauty of form. The artist should be welcomed in industrial plants. Aside from his contribution to good taste, he would undoubtedly be of value to the manufacturer in abolishing needless and expensive fussiness. There is no doubt that, in the last 20 years, the average American home has been cleared of much unsightly bric-a-brac, and of the glided ponderosity of Victorian furnishings. Yet there is still vast room for improvement, and Sweden is showing the way to accomplish it.

PROGRESS TOWARD NORMALCY IN OKLAHOMA.

Perils in Perpetuating Great Riches

Accumulation and growth of wealth in hands of trustees viewed by Irving Fisher as grave menace to private property system; bankers point out folly of men seeking to control their estates through trusts after death; another economist says wars are caused by trade expansion seeking outlets for these hoards of capital.

From the Christian Science Monitor.

WITHIN recent years there has developed, particularly in the United States, a method of perpetuating wealth and providing for its continual increase, which presents a new social problem. It is the formation of trusts, banking and private, by means of which large sums of capital are placed under the management of men skilled in the investment of funds in order to provide for a reasonably certain steady income from a secure source.

Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University has raised the warning note against this practice. More than 450,000 estates, valued at more than $4,000,000,000, are probated annually by trust companies, he has shown. In California the so-called court trust business was $269,000,000 in 1925, an increase of 37.4 per cent in five years, while the private trust business was $367,000,000, an increase of more than 100 per cent in the same period.

"Were the rate of growth of the California private trust business alone to continue unchecked," Prof. Fisher declares, "all the capital wealth of the country would be absorbed by the trust companies of California in a single generation. If the rate of growth continues, it is clear that the great mass of wealth of the country is going to be in the hands of the trust companies, and whenever that comes, it seems to me there is no going to be any more trust companies—that the Government will take them out of private hands."

Thus, despite the moderate inheritance taxes in this country, the accumulation of wealth proceeds at such a rapid pace that the movement actually constitutes a public menace, according to Prof. Fisher.

"If we in America, with ideas and usages the opposite of Soviet Russia's, would preserve the good that adheres in the institution of private property, we must correct its abuses," Prof. Fisher states. "In my opinion, the chief abuses are concerned with bequests, both private and charitable."

In theory, Prof. Fisher says, the law compels trustees to keep faith sacredly with the wishes of those who have passed on, but in practice it compels them to betray them. Julius Rosenwald, one of the most liberal philanthropists, is so impressed with the danger of the influence of a donor continuing after he has passed on, that every donation he makes may be expended at the discretion of the directors of the institution to which it is given.

The bankers themselves have called attention to the unpleasant possibilities inherent in this situation. Not long ago Gilbert T. Stephenson, president of the trust division of the American Bankers' Association, saw difficulties especially in the estates bequeathed to able-bodied business men which were tied up largely through trusts. The problem, he held, is in the excessive use of trusts.

"Too many men of family and estate, enmeshed with the trust idea," he declares, "set up trusts under will or by agreement, by which they leave estates in trust for sons, as well as daughters, not simply until these sons are 21 years of age—and through school, or until they reach a stated age of maturity, but until they are 45 or 50 years of age, or even for life. Many of these trusts are left without empowering the trustee to make partial distributions for needs that may arise or for the development of their special talents."

"Too many men attempt still further to protect their sons by means of general spendthrift provisions in their wills and trust agreements. In thus endowing their sons for life, such fathers ignore the fact that social and economic conditions change rapidly, and that men of today cannot foresee or provide intelligently for what may be their sons' needs a generation hence."

"Such indiscriminate and injudicious trusteering of property, after all need of protection or guidance of a trustee has ceased, cannot fail to inspire in the minds of able-bodied, independent men, whose inherited estates were thus tied up, unjustifiable resentment toward trust companies, and arouse in the public mind reaction against the whole institution of trustee-ship."

Mr. Stephenson is concerned chiefly with the unfavorable reaction of the beneficiaries of trusts, and rather mildly with the response of the public in general. But Prof. Eugenio Rignano, who would prevent the perpetuation of large accumulations of capital, believes that the enormous fortunes of today are having a disastrous effect upon productive activity.

In them he sees one of the roots of war. Were it not for the necessity for finding new markets and fields of investment to employ productively the large accumulations of wealth, he believes, there would not be the great international conflicts of interest that have led to all modern wars. He also asserts that the working classes today are determined not to work to swell the profits of the capitalist.

Sir Josiah Stamp, English economist, admits that this motive may be behind the low production of working men in many places, but holds that, in the countries in which the wealth of the capitalist has become greatest, the worker also enjoys more of the fruits of his toil. "If it is true that accumulation of wealth has improved the lot of the worker, it is justified in complaining of such accretion," Sir Josiah asks. At any rate, the situation indicated by Prof. Fisher again calls attention to the possible need for reconsideration of taxation methods which would control the hoarding up of wealth in private hands.

MISSOURI'S SHAME.

From the Jackson (Mo.) Cash-Book.
I head in shame, it has been during recent years of Republican rule when incompetency, graft and criminal negligence have cost the taxpayers fabulous sums, but covered up temporarily by the hallybooping of its leader, Charles U. Becker, through his selling of the county press through State printing. There are not specific charges against every cog in this machine, but birds of a feather flock together and all must answer jointly for the acts of each individual.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6

UPON the shoulders of a young man of 45, who can talk with as much ease about paintings, operas and books as he can on problems of state, rests a great deal of the responsibility of seeing that Mexico and the United States continue their friendship.

He is Manuel Teller, Mexican Ambassador to the United States since 1924, dist of the Washington diplomatic corps—the youngest man ever to hold the post. The shooting of a Mexican youth in Oklahoma, a relative of Mexico's President, and other recent events in this country which have stirred the Mexican people to resentment, have placed Teller in a delicate position. Those who know the Ambassador say that his wide experience in the past makes him capable of meeting any situation which might arise.

FOR Ambassador Teller, despite his youth, has always managed to emerge successful in crises to confront him heretofore. He probably has had as varied a career as any man serving a foreign embassy in Washington. Starting as a clerk without pay in the Mexican Foreign Office, and though born of middle-class parents, he has worked his way along the tedious route that is the lot of diplomats.

His first real post was at San Antonio, although he says that among his duties there was that of office boy. Then he went to Vancouver, and from there to Japan, where he was Consul for 16 years. While he was in Japan the whole foreign service of Mexico was discharged without more being provided to get the members back home.

Teller sold his personal effects, managed to get hold of some important state papers and, at the risk of his life, got them back safely to Mexico. His reward was to be sent back as charge d'affaires at Tokyo. There he served during the World War.

That mood makes trouble. Lordly bickering of the highways. Inflammation of the ego when another car gets in the way, and a red light forces a halt. The motorist who frantically sounds his horn in a traffic halt—he has it. A sense of personal importance. A feeling that one's own car is more important than other cars, other trips. Quick and regal irritation at the dilatory incidents of the highway.

Sound sense in the scientist's finding. Put an ordinary timid soul behind the wheel and he gets a new feeling of power. "Whoooo—I can go fast! Get out of my way!" The first requirement for highway safety is for motorists to remember that the road belongs to a lot of people—and to shun the vice of self-importance.

A roller rolls—and there's ice! That's the whole story of Norge operation.
But simplicity of operation is only one of the reasons why so many thousands select Norge. They like the lastingly beauty of cabinet design and finish... the thoughtfully planned shelf height and arrangement... the porcelain interior with rounded corners... the spring hinged door to the freezing compartment... the conveniently placed freezing control and de-frosting switch. They like the Watervior, always ready with a cold drink without ice.
You too will like the many improvements and refinements you'll find in the Norge. That's why we say, by all means see the Norge before you buy.
The Norge is manufactured by Norge Corporation, Detroit, a Division of Borg-Warner, one of the world's largest makers of automotive parts, including free wheeling.

ON TRIP TO THE EAST

CHARLES H. SABIN JR. WEBS

Banker's Son Marries Former Dorothy Layman Ransdell.
By the Associated Press.
GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 6.—Charles H. Sabin Jr., son of the chairman of the board of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York City, married the former Mrs. Dorothy Layman Ransdell of Washington two weeks ago at Bayberry Lodge, the home of her parents here, it was learned yesterday.
Sabin's marriage to Ruth Ogden, socially prominent, was dissolved by divorce in Reno several weeks ago. Divorce last October ended Mrs. Sabin's marriage to Dr. Robert C. Ransdell.

MRS. J. REYNOLDS MEDART.
W. HO. with Mr. Medart, departed yesterday for Jamestown, N. Y., to spend the remainder of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Medart live in Overhills, St. Louis County.

Social Items

M. R. AND MRS. ERWIN PHILIP HILTS. 14 Hortense place, and their son, Erwin Rumsey Hilt, will leave St. Louis today for a motor trip through the West. Mr. Hilt Jr., who has been taking military training this summer in connection with his studies at Princeton University, will spend the late season in Yellowstone Park. Mr. and Mrs. Hilt plan to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rankin of the St. Regis apartments at their cottage near Glacier National Park and will motor without a definite itinerary until mid-September, when their son will return to Princeton for his senior year.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilt returned home a few days ago from Nantucket, Mass., where they spent the early season with friends from Detroit at Siasconset. They spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Green, 47 Westmoreland place, at Hyannisport, Mass., and passed through Eastern Point, New London, Conn., where they saw Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Holmes, 6500 Forsythe boulevard, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Gould, who have houses there.

Nantucket, Mass., has increased in popularity as a summer resort for St. Louis, and several prominent families have cottages there for the present season. Mr. and Mrs. Firmin Desloge of the Clayton road and two of their sons have a house there, as have Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Francis, 6464 Ellenwood avenue, with their daughter, Anne, and their son, David III; Mr. and Mrs. Lynton T. Block, Edgewood and Price road, and Mrs. Block's children; Mrs. Charles E. Bascom, 52 Fortland place, and Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wendling, 4509 Pershing avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Hammar, 7 Hortense place, are at the Sea Cliff Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Coleman, 5042 Washington boulevard, returned home Tuesday from their summer trip. Mrs. Coleman went East in June to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Langley Carleton Keyes in Cambridge, Mass., and saw them off for Europe. They are studying at the University of Munich this summer. Mrs. Coleman also visited her daughter, Miss Dorothy Coleman, at the Gloucester School of the Little Theater, Gloucester, Mass., which she is attending.

After her return from the East Mrs. Coleman accompanied Mr. Coleman for a trip to Culver, Ind., to visit their son, George, a student at the summer school of Culver Military Academy. George will return the last of August to resume his studies at the Country Day School. Miss Dorothy will be home Aug. 24 to remain until Sept. 20, when she will return to Vassar College as a senior. She will make her debut here the following year.

Mrs. Benjamin G. Chapman Jr., 58 Kingsbury place, and her daughter, Miss Jaquelin, will leave St. Louis tomorrow to motor to Wequetonsing, Mich., where Miss Chapman will visit Miss Margaret Duffy of Grand Rapids, Mich., at the Duffy cottage. Mrs. Chapman will continue to Port Huron, Mich., where she will be the guest of Mr. Chapman's mother, Mrs. Chapman Sr. Mr. Chapman will go North later and accompany her home. They will be away about three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Baker, 142 Linden avenue, Clayton, and their children will leave St. Louis about Aug. 16 for Grand Haven, Mich., where they will be guests at one of the hotels for the remainder of the season.

Mrs. Carlton Bloodworth plans to leave St. Louis Sunday for her home in New Orleans, following a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Myron P. Jackson, 6213 Cabanne avenue. Mr. Bloodworth spent a week in St. Louis during her visit, and preceded her home. Their young daughter, Evelyn, is at a girls' camp in the South.

Clark Adreon, son of Mrs. Edward L. Adreon, 5706 Cabanne avenue, will depart today for Ephraim, Wis., to join his mother, who has been the guest for a month of Mrs. Alfred Chambers Carr, 5719 Cabanne avenue, at the Carr cottage. Mrs. Adreon is expected home the last of August.

FURTHER LOSS IN GRAIN PRICES ON LOCAL BOARD

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE.
Aug. 6.—Wheat futures closed 1/2 cent lower on the local market. December corn lost more than a cent.

Following a lower opening on fresh decline at Liverpool, where prices closed 1 1/4¢ lower. December wheat recovered the loss and September sold a shade higher. Subsequently in morning December was 1/2 cent lower.

Winnipeg, which was 1/2¢ higher early, closed 1/2¢ net lower.
December corn sold on both sides of the previous close, the reported absence of rain helping the market and wheat was influenced heavily. Later December corn was net lower.

Russian wheat shipments were reported at 3,000,000 bushels for the week compared with 2,100,000 previous week.

Local wheat receipts which were 130,
200 compared with 200,000 last week

SLAIN TRYING RECONCILIATION

Bixby (Mo.) Man Seeks to Return Daughter to Her Husband.
IRONTON, Mo., Aug. 6.—Benny Wampler, 42 years old, is held in jail here in connection with the killing of his father-in-law, Otto Barr, 45, who died at noon yesterday. Barr was shot and fatally wounded Tuesday night at Wampler's farm, near Bixby. No formal charge has been filed against Wampler.

Sheriff Barnes, who returned from Bixby, said Wampler and his wife, a daughter of Barr, had been estranged and, when Barr and Mrs. Wampler went to Wampler's home in an effort to effect a reconciliation, a quarrel culminated in the shooting followed. Wampler surrendered four hours later.

DANCER FACES DEPORTATION

"Miss Poland" Wants to Wed American Abroad and Return.
By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 6.—Janina Smolinska, former premier danseuse of the Paris Folies Bergere, sent to the United States as "Miss Poland" in the 1928 international beauty contest, yesterday pleaded that she be allowed to go marry an American citizen and return legally. Miss Smolinska is accused of overstaying her residence permit and faces deportation, which would bar her forever from returning to the United States. She was accompanied to the Immigration Bureau by her fiancé, Walter Grabowski. The statements will be sent to Washington for a ruling.

THE NEW ARLINGTON MEMORIAL BRIDGE

This white stone span linking the Lincoln Memorial with the historic Robert E. Lee mansion in Arlington, Va., is the newest addition to the national capital's many architectural beauties. It is the costliest and heaviest drawbridge in the world. The 10,000-ton draw in the center, costing approximately $1,000,000, can be raised in a minute. The bridge is completed except for decorative columns.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN
By Mary Graham Bonner

Fire Weeds

PEGGY and John knew many wild flowers and recognized the fire weeds at once. They stood all over a long bank and strip of woods that had been burnt by a forest fire. In the midst of all the ugly, burnt ground and the bare, forlorn trees they showed their bright pinkish purple flowers.

Their stems were even taller than those of the Butter-and-Eggs family of flowers. "Do you want to know about us?" they asked John and Peggy. "Oh, it's just too wonderful to hear the stories the flowers tell," Peggy exclaimed as she climbed one of the Little Black Clocks. "I'll tell you about them later," she said, and squeezed it affectionately.

"I think you'd better tell them right away," the Clock said. "We always grow where there are flowers will not grow and where there are flowers will grow. Where railway lines run and where there are cinders and sparks make it impossible for other flowers to grow we come along," they said.

"We do not mind the hard, burnt ground as some flowers would. We come forth into flowers, one after another, on our long stems and when the autumn comes we send seeds forth in silky white packages which are carried by the wind to make new plants." And as Peggy and John told the fire weeds how many of them they had seen where there had been forest fires and how much they were appreciated, the Little Black Clock added:

"We can find them, too, in almost all parts of this country and Alaska and Europe, and Asia."

A Major-Domo of Weddings

Who Attends to "Everything
the Other Fellow Forgets," and Recalls Some of the Sidelights.

By FAY PROFILET

WEDDINGS! At the mere mention of the word Charles L. Siegel came to attention, tapped his pencil expectantly on his desk, thoughtfully gazed at the walls of his tent and awning company office, and smiled.

"Strange, isn't it?" I suppose I have helped more people get in trouble than any other man in St. Louis. For 30 years I have been putting up canopies, covering the aisles and floors for fashionable weddings and receptions—and what I could tell you about weddings! I can truthfully say that I have arranged for eight out of every 10 of the important weddings in St. Louis in that time and I can take the place of anyone at the wedding but that of the bride and groom and the minister.

"You get a thrill when you see a canopy?" "Sure you do, for you know there's a wedding or a party. But a canopy really serves two purposes: It keeps off the rain and makes the entrance at the home or the church more private. You see the old adage, 'Happy is the bride that the sun shines on.' I can't make the sun shine but I can and do keep out the rain. Naturally every bride wants her wedding to be the prettiest she has ever seen and she is anxious to have the details perfect, so it would be hard to say which one had the prettiest wedding. All the brides love lovely to me and I like the weddings and receptions better than any part of my work. I like people and like to watch them in crowds."

"What do I really do at a wedding?" "Well, I just do about everything the other fellow forgets. I have fastened the bride's gown, helped her on with her gloves, put on her slippers, arranged the flowers, run errands at the last minute and served as a best man's assistant. I can't department, for they leave everything with me they can't carry down the aisle."

"My work consists of putting up the canopy (ours are all green and gray striped) at the house and the church, covering the aisles and the floor of the home with canvas and arranging the reception room at the church. The floor of this room is also covered and we furnish the chairs, racks and the most important item, a large looking glass. The main aisle of the church is covered with two layers of canvas. The top layer is for the guests to walk on but the second covering is for the bride and her attendants only. I try to make a rule that after the bride's mother has been seated no one else is allowed down the aisle. I then see that the bride party is ready, draw back the Best Man's signal to the organist and start the ushers. The attendants are spaced about five or six paces apart in order that the bride party move slowly and gracefully."

"What about the bride?" "Oh, she's right here with her father. The organ is playing. 'Here Comes the Bride' and I am right there arranging her train so that it will turn down the aisle properly. It is necessary sometimes to fortify the bride's father before he starts down for this is an ordeal for the average man. In a few moments they are coming out and as the bride comes the ushers pick up her train and lay it across the groom's arm. 'Here brother, I say, 'take care of this, this is your first responsibility. He is usually surprised and smiles sort of bashful-like."

"I only know my bride by their maiden names. They are the ones I'm interested in. They give me the order, we plan the wedding and they pay the bill. I merely see the groom at the altar or get a glimpse of him as they come out in case something is spilled on the floor. The outer canvas is removed only after the decorations have been finished and just before the guests arrive. It takes from a half hour to three hours for a simple wedding, but much longer for the tents."

"What do I do with the canopy?" "All right then. We only use the canopy one time and after that we sell it to contractors for wind breaks or to interior decorators to cover the carpets and furniture. All the aisles aren't covered with white material, either. I have covered them with orchid colored cloth, light blue, orange and so on. A very elaborate wedding the bride walked down the aisle on pale pink velvet."

"Tell you about some amusing episodes?" "There have been lots of those too. A funny one happened at a wedding set for 3 p.m. sharp and the rain came down in torrents. The church was filled and it still rained. The bride had ordered no canopy and there she sat in her car in all her bridal finery and the pastor of the church impatient to start the wedding. I told her if she would shut her eyes and promise to keep them closed we would get her into the church without a drop of water touching her gown. She promised. We took the top off a truck and four men carried it over me while I held it in the bride. She was on time and not a drop of rain on her dress and veil. She never did know how she got in the church."

"And there was the little flower girl who had to be coaxed with candy to precede the bride. She started all right and got about 10 feet, when she suddenly kicked her basket over the heads of the wedding guests. Her father was waiting for her and what she got right there in that church, was nobody's business."

"And there are two women who 'make' every wedding. No matter how bad the weather they are among those present. At one exclusive wedding one of the pair said to the other, 'I forgot my card, but it doesn't matter. I'm from the newspaper.' Of course she was not from a paper. They are just perpetual wedding guests."

"Anything may happen at a wedding. Brides have fainted, mothers have become hysterical, the ring has been lost, and the flowers forgotten. I have had weddings in almost all the churches in St. Louis and keep a list of the measurements of the various churches, to eliminate my going and measuring the aisles every time I have an order there. In 1924 I put up my first canopy for a wedding in St. Louis, and since then I have seen more than a thousand brides go to the altar."

"I have furnished canopies and covered the aisles and taken care of the reception rooms for as many as six brides in one family, and frequently three or four sisters. I often have three weddings in a day and one time arranged for six in one day."

"I like short hair on brides; their veils fit much better and they dress their hair so pretty now. And

I SERVED AS BEST MAN AND 'WILL CALL' DEPARTMENT

and after all why worry about him—he's just the groom. And let me tell you this, the bride is the least perturbed at a wedding. I have seen many fathers barely able to drag down the aisle and I have never seen a groom that was not very much upset and self-conscious, but the bride simply floats down the aisle in a bliss of glory. "There are tense moments immediately before the wedding. Some of these young people would forget their heads if they could. What do you suppose I had at one wedding? I had 15 pocketbooks! They leave their wraps and coats and the men would go out without their hats if I didn't watch them. It's a great life!"

"What a bride ever left at the church?" "Oh, yes. But I can't tell you about that. However, it is the bride who is usually late. I always think that when a girl is late for her own wedding she will keep her husband waiting for his meals. I just don't like to see a bride late. That's bad!"

"A new custom at weddings that I like very much is that of the ushers returning to escort the members of the families to the door. That keeps the receiving line from getting in the crowd and perhaps being late for the wedding reception. At a large wedding I have in mind, a bridesmaid and groomsmen were pushed from under the canopy, back into the crowd and were 45 minutes late in getting to the reception and into the receiving line. No matter who the wedding was, the ushers are who are getting married, and in what church the wedding is performed, they all seem in a hurry to rush out of the church."

"Do I go to the reception?" "And how! I stay on the job until the last guest has gone, even if it is 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. At many receptions I build a large tent, the correct name of which is tabernacle. To call it a tabernacle is incorrect, for a tabernacle is just the entrance to a tent. Such an addition is usually made to a home to provide more room or to enable the decorators to emphasize certain decorative theme. In addition to building this tent I heat and light it as well. I have built them in all shapes and sizes for weddings, receptions and all kinds of parties. The largest one I ever built was for the elaborate debut party of Miss Dorothy McBride, who later became Mrs. William D. Orthwein II. The tent was 90 by 110 feet with a 22-foot wall. It was transformed into the setting for a Venetian ball and it took 15 days for the crew to do the carpenter and canvas work. I could recall hundreds of unusual tabernacles but I think one of the most attractive ones I have ever done was for the wedding of Miss Janet Gardner to Robert N. Hawes, at the home of former Gov. and Mrs. Frederick D. Gardner in June. All the floors in these tents are covered with a thick layer of paper and there was the little flower girl who had to be coaxed with candy to precede the bride. She started all right and got about 10 feet, when she suddenly kicked her basket over the heads of the wedding guests. started all right and got about 10 feet, when she suddenly kicked her basket over the heads of the wedding guests. Her father was waiting for her and what she got right there in that church, was nobody's business."

"And there are two women who 'make' every wedding. No matter how bad the weather they are among those present. At one exclusive wedding one of the pair said to the other, 'I forgot my card, but it doesn't matter. I'm from the newspaper.' Of course she was not from a paper. They are just perpetual wedding guests."

"Anything may happen at a wedding. Brides have fainted, mothers have become hysterical, the ring has been lost, and the flowers forgotten. I have had weddings in almost all the churches in St. Louis and keep a list of the measurements of the various churches, to eliminate my going and measuring the aisles every time I have an order there. In 1924 I put up my first canopy for a wedding in St. Louis, and since then I have seen more than a thousand brides go to the altar."

"I have furnished canopies and covered the aisles and taken care of the reception rooms for as many as six brides in one family, and frequently three or four sisters. I often have three weddings in a day and one time arranged for six in one day."

"I like short hair on brides; their veils fit much better and they dress their hair so pretty now. And

and after all why worry about him—he's just the groom. And let me tell you this, the bride is the least perturbed at a wedding. I have seen many fathers barely able to drag down the aisle and I have never seen a groom that was not very much upset and self-conscious, but the bride simply floats down the aisle in a bliss of glory. "There are tense moments immediately before the wedding. Some of these young people would forget their heads if they could. What do you suppose I had at one wedding? I had 15 pocketbooks! They leave their wraps and coats and the men would go out without their hats if I didn't watch them. It's a great life!"

"What a bride ever left at the church?" "Oh, yes. But I can't tell you about that. However, it is the bride who is usually late. I always think that when a girl is late for her own wedding she will keep her husband waiting for his meals. I just don't like to see a bride late. That's bad!"

"A new custom at weddings that I like very much is that of the ushers returning to escort the members of the families to the door. That keeps the receiving line from getting in the crowd and perhaps being late for the wedding reception. At a large wedding I have in mind, a bridesmaid and groomsmen were pushed from under the canopy, back into the crowd and were 45 minutes late in getting to the reception and into the receiving line. No matter who the wedding was, the ushers are who are getting married, and in what church the wedding is performed, they all seem in a hurry to rush out of the church."

"Do I go to the reception?" "And how! I stay on the job until the last guest has gone, even if it is 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. At many receptions I build a large tent, the correct name of which is tabernacle. To call it a tabernacle is incorrect, for a tabernacle is just the entrance to a tent. Such an addition is usually made to a home to provide more room or to enable the decorators to emphasize certain decorative theme. In addition to building this tent I heat and light it as well. I have built them in all shapes and sizes for weddings, receptions and all kinds of parties. The largest one I ever built was for the elaborate debut party of Miss Dorothy McBride, who later became Mrs. William D. Orthwein II. The tent was 90 by 110 feet with a 22-foot wall. It was transformed into the setting for a Venetian ball and it took 15 days for the crew to do the carpenter and canvas work. I could recall hundreds of unusual tabernacles but I think one of the most attractive ones I have ever done was for the wedding of Miss Janet Gardner to Robert N. Hawes, at the home of former Gov. and Mrs. Frederick D. Gardner in June. All the floors in these tents are covered with a thick layer of paper and there was the little flower girl who had to be coaxed with candy to precede the bride. She started all right and got about 10 feet, when she suddenly kicked her basket over the heads of the wedding guests. Her father was waiting for her and what she got right there in that church, was nobody's business."

BERLIN, AUG. 7.—German negotiators through the American embassy for the purchase of $20,000,000 to $40,000,000 worth of cotton from the American Cotton Board, it was learned today, is the most reliable source. The offer for 600,000 bales, with an additional 200,000 bales on the basis of three years' credit, payment in bills of exchange in dollars and one-half per cent interest.

Cotton Board Puts Aside Offer to Assist Germany
the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, AUG. 7.—The Cotton Board today put its offer to assist Germany in her interests to consider the offer to buy cotton—opportunity to dispose of surplus stabilization surpluses—efforts to bolster prices.

There was no indication of a decision would be reached on the Southern protests and negotiations. Some details of the negotiations may be necessary to overcome these difficulties.

A loss of many millions of dollars in respect if the German Government were to purchase of 600,000 tons of cotton with an option of 200,000 tons more, was accepted.

The Cotton Stabilization Corporation has paid an average of $30 per ton for the 1,300,000 bales taken from the 1929 surplus. The 1,300,000 bales would total $39,000,000. The German offer to purchase a price range of $30 to $40,000,000.

Almost Half of Surplus
Disposal of 600,000 bbl could mean removal of almost half of the surplus which cotton growers have contended constitutes a depressing influence on the cotton markets.

The protests advanced by the Senators include demands for any stabilization cotton program to be paid in equal amount be paid from the current crop to the future. They are strenuously opposing the application of supplying markets with cotton in competition with the surplus raised this year. Chairman Cramer yesterday he did not indicate any change in placement of the cotton.

The New Orleans Cotton Exchange is reported to have President Hoover opposing possible sale. Senator J. Morgan also has filed protest with Chief Executive.

The board today contemplates withholding information as to exact terms of the German loan.

Protests from Berlin

From Berlin last night came protests against the new view, where that the deal appeared for the purpose of the Farm Board out of an emergency situation. Bremen citizens also reported receipt ofgrams from American traders. Regularly the New Orleans Exchange, expressing opposition.

Carl Williams, a board member yesterday said the cotton market was a contradictory one. Opposing the suggestion that the surplus be sold, he took the attitude that there was no question of doing what the proposed sale would be the same as money to that country. Little hope is held for any of what to Germany long-term credit plan, but the country has an unusual production of grain this year.
